School Board Gives Contracts To 'Substitutes'

Board Changes Long-standing Policy to Save District Money

Sixteen "substitute" teachers — all married women — were awarded contracts last night during a meeting of the Monessen Board of Education.

In effect, the decision changed a long-standing School Board policy of not hiring married women on a permanent basis.

Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of schools, recommended that the teachers be given contracts in order to save the school district almost $40,000 in penalties this coming year.

All of the 16 teachers — seven of whom hold degrees — have actually been teaching year-around in the city's elementary schools even though they were hired on a substitute basis.

"When we hire a substitute teacher who is not actually 'subbing" for anyone, the state penalizes us one unit in our appropriations," Dr. Pallone said. "A unit this coming school term will amount to $2,400. Since we have 16 such teachers, the loss in appropriations to the district looms as most important."

Faithful Service

John Lancas, president of the School Board, said he favored awarding the contracts since the 16 teachers involved had rendered the district faithful service in the past.

Director Alex Kachmarik agreed with Lancas but asked:

"I wonder how these women can do two jobs at once?"

Director Romeo Furio said he felt the Board was setting a bad precedent in hiring teachers without degrees. However Furio reluctantly voted in favor of Dr. Pallone's recommendation when it came to a vote.

So did all of the other directors present.

Receiving contracts were these teachers: Mrs. Helen Dolan, Mrs. Rose Kress, Mrs. Alberta Stima, Mrs. Augustine Behrendt, Mrs. Elizabeth Jenion Mrs. Ena Labeka, Mrs. Fern Shire, Mrs. Ethel Americo, Mrs. Louis Gouger, Mrs. Anita Karlowsky, Mrs. Eva Passojo, Mrs. Marian Scales, Mrs. Ida Siple, Mrs. Emma Busch, Mrs. Ann Ritzer and Mrs. Helen Schumm.

School Bus Bids

Those teachers with degrees will begin at an annual salary of $3,400, while those without will start at $3,200. The Board plans to urge all to receive degrees as soon as possible.

The special meeting of the Board was actually called to consider bids on a school bus. However this purchase never came off as the directors voted unanimously to table the matter.

Dr. Pallone explained that further study revealed that one bus would not be sufficient to transport the district's 400 transient students. He said the District did not have housing for two buses at this time, and that it was felt more time was needed to look into the matter.

The Board was informed of a letter from Dr. Carl E. Seifert, secretary of the State Council of Education in reference to the Monessen-Rostraver controversy.

Dr. Seifert said the Council had withheld an opinion on a petition of residents in the area, seeking permission to send their children to Monessen schools. In the past, Rostraver has objected to the Case Against 15 Segregationists Comes to End

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—The government rested its case against 15 segregationists today and promptly dropped its charges against four of them.

"In my opinion, there is not sufficient evidence to warrant the conviction of defendants Thomas Sanders, Chris Foust, John Brown Long and J. L. Coley," said U.S. Attorney John C. Crawford Jr.

"I respectfully ask the court that the charges in the case of these four defendants be dismissed," he said.

"Motion sustained," said U. S District Judge Robert L. Taylor, and the four defendants were free.

Court opened after a 30-minute delay with reading of a stipulation by defense attorney William M. Shaw. It was an agreement on the facts that Clyde Cook, the defendant cited most often in almost two weeks of testimony, had been fined $50 in city court at Clinton for a fight with the Rev. Paul Turner last Dec. 4.

This fight featured the testimony about violence in Clinton at a time when the government alleged 14 local residents conspired with John Kasper to violate an injunction against interference with integration.

Scout Troop Sets Out for 50-Mile Hike to Conestoga

Ten boys and one man set out today to do something most persons, in this mechanized age, don't do in a lifetime.

They left Monessen on foot to hike to Camp Conestoga, 50 miles away.

The group, all members of Boy Scout Troop 3, sponsored by the Allison-Lescanac Post 1190, Veterans of Foreign Wars, plans to spend three days and two nights on "the road."

Led by Scoutmaster Ray Purks, the boys left the No. 2 fire hall at 7 a. m. this morning.

They plan to eat lunch in Smithton and spend the first night near Alverton.

The second day (Friday) will find the boys hiking to Kooser State Park near Somerset where they will spend another night. A swim in Kooser Lake is one of the features of the trip.

Test New Packs

The boys will leave Kooser Saturday morning on the last leg of the journey to Camp Conestoga, where the Troop will camp next week.

Another feature of the trip is to test new aluminum pack mounts built especially for the hike by the boys. Each boy will be carrying about 21 pounds of equipment and supplies.

In addition, the boys will earn Blazer and Hiking merit badges. credit toward their 50- mile Trail Blazer and Hiking merit badges.

The hike marks the second special event enjoyed this week by members of the troop. On Sunday they left Monessen by chartered bus for the Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge Park.

They spent all day Monday at the Jamboree and participated in all activities of that day. The boys returned home early Tuesday morning.

Taking part in the hike are the following Explorer Scouts:

Bernard Anders, Steven Bewszka, James Cantoni, Eugene Chelen, William Hurrianko, John Lender Jr., Thomas Hutchison, Ralph Krasik and Robert Gillingham Jr. and John A. Dragan Jr., assistant scoutmaster.

House Committee Votes to Cut Cabaret Tax

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House Ways Means Committee voted overwhelmingly today to cut the 20 per cent cabaret tax in half.

The committee - approved bill would reduce to 10 per cent the leavy added to the tab of patrons of nightclubs and hotel dining rooms which provide entertainment or live music for dancing.

It would cost the Treasury an estimated 21 million dollars a year in revenue. Despite Treasury opposition, committee members said the bill had a good chance of House passage this year. Senate passage this year was considered unlikely, but the bill would remain alive for Senate action next session.

The bill was recommended unanimously a week ago by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Aime J. Forand (D-R.I.). Members said the full committee's action, by voice vote, was not unanimous.

Lobbying hardest for the measure are professional musicians. They have blamed the cabaret tax for the closing of many hotel entertainment rooms in recent years and figure tax relief would provide more jobs for musicians.

Fayette Pinball Test Opens with Court Testimony

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—A government secretary, wife of a paralyzed war veteran, testified in court Wednesday she "invested" more than $3,000 in pinball machines during the past four years

Mrs. Ann Pratt, mother of two children, told how she played a pinball machine at a Uniontown restaurant last month for five hours and won only $25 for her $110 "deposit."

The testimony was offered in a test case which opened Wednesday to decide the legality of multiple-coin type pinball machines.

Police confiscated 41 such machines in raids at 19 establishments in Uniontown, Connellsville and Brownsville last June 20. No arrests were made. State Police Capt. Frank Garnow said the raids were made to provoke a test case.

State Trooper Frank Lesch, who headed a detail that raided the Moose Club here, testified the bartender admitted three machines had "payoffs."

State Deputy Attorney General Frank P. Lawley, a spectator at the trial, had asked Fayette County Court after the raids to declare the machines gambling devices. The court, however, deferred a decision until after a hearing.

Attorney Louis Glasso, Pittsburgh, counsel for a Pittsburgh pinball distributor and Veterans of Foreign Wars and Moose units, said some of the machines cost $500 each and "millions of dollars" were involved in the case.

The Commonwealth has indicated that if it wins its case, it will outlaw multiple-coin type pinball machines in Pennsylvania.

Four-lane Roads On State Agenda

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler said today Pennsylvania's 2,216 miles of three-lane highways will be converted to four-lanes as swiftly as possible.

Lawler said the federal government does not recommend the construction of three-lane facilities, so his department was attempting to comply with their requirements. He said three-lane road construction was discontinued when the present administration took office and those roads under construction were completed.

Lawler said three-lane roads were considered dangerous, so they will be expanded as funds become available.

Major Repairs Needed At Washington School

Major repairs are needed at the Washington elementary school, according to a report submitted last night to the Monessen Board of Education.

H. Ernest Clark, a city architect, said the exterior of the school's west wall is in "very bad shape." He estimated the cost of repairs would be "$20,000 or more."

Clark, who examined the Washington and Jefferson buildings at the request of school officials, said it was "probably too late to do anything about the condition this year."

In his report, Clark said:

"This condition at the Washington school is nothing new. I recall when it was built in 1914, the top 15 feet of the wall froze. Since then water has seeped between the brick and back-up tile, rusting away wall ties and steel angles. The outer wall has been slowly pulling away until it is now past the patch-up stage."

Clark suggested an entirely new brick veneer directly over the existing wall but tied into the back-up tile. He said the inner wall was sound and posed no danger to the students inside of the school.

"The danger is that the bricks on the outer wall may fall," said Clark. "I would suggest that the area be fenced off until repairs are made."

Clark reasoned that it was too late to complete the job before the start of school. He also pointed out that necessary material was scarce at the moment and that the project shouldn't be a "hurry-up job."

As for the Jefferson school, Clark said there was no sense painting the building without first replacworn-out gutters and flashing on the roof. He also reported that part of the cornice was loose and in danger of falling.

After listeneing to the architect, the Board voted unanimously to accept his report. They also authorized him to draw up plans and specifications for needed reparis at both buildings.

Zhukov May Seek Big Four Meeting

MOSCOW (UP)—Western observers said today Marshal Georgi Zhukov may propose a new Big Four "summit" conference as the prelude to any meeting between him and U.S. Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

The official Soviet news agency Tass reported briefly and without comment President Eisenhower's statement Wednesday that he could see no harm in an exchange of visits by Wilson and Zhukov, the Soviet defense minister.

Russell Claims Bill Will Die Unless Pressured

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell predicted today the Senate will kill the most controversial section of the civil rights bill unless "some unusual pressure is brought."

The Georgia Democrat, leader of the southern bloc fighting the bill, apparently meant White House pressure.

He referred to Part III of the administration's four-point rights bill. Part III would empower the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions to prevent threatened violation of any civil rights. President Eisenhower indicated Wednesday he does not favor extending this power to school segregation cases unless local authorities ask for federal intervention.

Amendment Debate Continues

Russell's prediction was made to newsmen as the Senate headed into the second day of debate on an amendment by Sens. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) and Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.) to knock out Part III. It is the 10th day of overall debate on the knotty civil rights issue.

Removal of that section would make the legislation mainly a voting rights bill. But it would not guarantee jury trials in contempt cases involving voting rights. Other sections would create a bipartisan commission to investigate voting rights violations; establish a new civil rights divison in the Justice Department, and authorize the seeking of injunctions in voting cases.

Dixie foes have centered much of their attack on absence of a jury trial guarantee. But indications were if Part III is killed they will not wage an all-out filibuster to block passage of the House-approved bill.

Nevertheless senators from the South still publicly vowed "a battle to the death" against the bill. In a recorded television program Russell said 18 Dixie Democrats "unalterably opposed" to the bill are endeavoring to devise plans to defeat it."

Supporters of the bill conceded a vote now on striking out Part III would be close. But they figured on picking up strength before the vote, probably early next week.

Knowland Sees Retention

"It will be close but . . . I think it will not be stricken," Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said.

Rights supporters expressed belief they have weakened the southern case by Wednesday's introduction of a modifying amendment to Part III. It would repeal a post-Civil War law that would empower the President to use troops to enforce court decrees in rights cases, including school segregation, under Part III.

Eisenhower said Wednesday he couldn't "imagine any set of circumstances that would ever induce me to send federal troops

Police Promise To Cooperate with School Officials

Monessen Police Chief Michael Kuvinka promised "full cooperation" in curbing vandalism at city schools during a meeting with the Board of Education last night.

Kuvinka met with school directors at the request of Dr. Joseph Pallone, school superintendent.

"I promised that the police department will cooperate in every manner possible," said Kuvinka "I explained that the department is working short-handed at the moment in view of vacations."

At Kuvinka's suggestion, the Board agreed to write a letter to City Council asking for strict enforcement of the 10 o'clock curfew.

Director Romeo Furio suggested that "this isn't entirely a police problem." He recommended that parents pay closer attention to their children.

Kuvinka sais all steps possible will be taken to prevent future vandalism.

Shapiro Tells Torrance Hospital to Economize

Authorities at Torrance State Hospital were under orders today from Secretary of Welfare Harry Shapiro to "economize on all services which do not directly affect the patients."

Shapiro gave the order during a visit to the hospital earlier this week. He met with trustees of the institution and offered suggestions for staying within the $800,000 budget appropriated by the legislature.

Shapiro told the trustees he didn't see how the hospital could be operated on that figure, but added that a real honest effort should be made to do so.

He said he felt the state legislature is sincerely convinced that it is possible. So he directed hospital officials to adopt every economy not directly related to the care of the patient.

Shapiro had asked for a budget of $891,000 to operate Torrance during the coming fiscal year. He said that figure was based on a per-day cost of $4 per patient, which, he stated, still fell below the $4.75 minimum recognized by the American Pyschiatric Society.

During the meeting Dr. William Shilling, superintendent of the hospital, stated that he felt the institution could "maintain" its present services. This brought a bristling reply from Shapiro, who quoted budget figures to support his argument.

A little later, Shapiro came to Dr. Shilling's defense by reminding the trustees that the superintendent wasn't required to do anything more than consult them from time to time. He said the role of the trustee was "to advise rather than resolve."

Shapiro said the reduced budget would require the dismissal of some employees, but he would not say how many.

He did insist that such dismissals would be solely on the basis of production and that neither age nor political affiliation would be a consideration.

Sitting in on yesterday's meeting in addition to Secretary Shapiro, Superintendent Shilling and Trustee Chairman Stader were: Accountant, Louis Petrarca; engineer, F. V. Andre; personnel manager, John Thompson; business manager, A. G. Duvall; trustees Clair Morgan and Clark Queer, of Mt. Pleasant; Orlando Martini, of New Kensington; Virgil Chirico, of Jeannette; Stephen Wisyanski, of Monessen; John C. Valko, of South Fork, and five newspapermen.

Judge Edward G. Bauer and District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco have already been selected as two of the Democratic nominees.

The Republicans have picked Avra N. Pershing, Jr., Robert H. Rial and Willis Topper as their candidates.

New Perry High School Approved

$900,000 Project Expected to Be Ready for 1959-60 Term

Final plans for a million dollar high school in Perry-Lower Tyrone Twp. have been approved by the State Public School Building Authority, it was announced today.

Bids on the new building — which will be financed on a lease-back agreement with the Authority — will be opened on Aug. 27 in Harrisburg.

If contracts are awarded soon after, the new building will be ready in time for the 1959-60 term.

When completed, the high school building will have 26 classrooms as well as a gymnasium, library and other auxiliary rooms.

To Be Addition

Actually the new building will be an addition to the present elementary school located on West Constitution St. The old building will be converted into an art room and cafeteria.

The addition will be 350 feet in length and will consist of two standard-size and three over-size classrooms, four science and geography rooms, one home making suite, two industrial art rooms, one music room, library, conference room, student activities room, gymnasium, auditorium, two faculty rooms and an administrative suite.

The library will be situated so that a doorway will lead to the outside, thus making it accessible to the adult population as well.

800 Seat Gym

The gym will seat 800 persons while the auditorium will seat 756 students.

The building will be housed on a 17 acre site.

Uniontown Attorney Thomas J. Kalman, solicitor for the school district said that members of the Perry-Tryone Board of Education will be in Harrisburg on Aug 27 for the opening of bids.

He said that cost estimates on the new building range up to $900,000.

The current Perryopolis High School will be converted into an elementary school once the new building is put into use.

G. E. Hibbs is supervising principal of the Perry-Lower district. He is currently recovering from surgery in Washington, Pa., hospital.

move on the grounds that the loss in taxation would work a hardship on the township school system.

According to the communication, the State Council will hold another meeting on Sept. 18 in Harrisburg, presumably to hear additional testimony.

Also the Expenses

Dr. Pallone strongly urged the School Board to be represented at the meeting. He also suggested that maybe the School District might absorb some of the legal expenses now being borne exclusively by the residents involved.

Director John Kossar said the Board should be represented and "should help out in every way possible to let these people know we are behind them." The Board agreed unanimously with this thinking.

Three teachers submitted letters of resignation. They were Emma Jean Gerbin Kovacs, Mary Louise Dominico and Lucille Kelly Van Scoy. The resignations were accepted with the Board's appreciation for past services.

Mrs. Armand Niccolai, wife of the Monessen High football coach, was unanimously elected teacher in home economics, succeeding the resigned Mrs. Van Scoy, at a starting salary of $3,400.

The Board also elected John DeMillion custodian at a salary of $400 per year. Only Lancas voted no, stating that his objection was based on the fact that another applicant, Edward Ratica, had more seniority in the school system.

Herman Keith, who was assigned a position as teacher in the Junior High School during the second semester of last year, was officially elected as a temporary professional employe.

Teacher Dropped

One teacher was also dropped during the meeting. Walter Kritsky, who was hired to teach in the electric shop at the Vocational school last November, will not be retained.

It was explained that decreased enrollment at the school forced the move. John Duronio, Vocational director, has been assigned to teach the electrical classes.

The application of Miss Annmarie Margaret Zubic, of Monessen, for a teaching position was acknowledged and filed for future reference.

Joseph Yonko, president of the janitors union, was present and asked for a meeting with the directors. However no action was taken on the request.

Directors present were Lancas, Fureo, Kachmarik, Kossar and Nick Cullen.

Krushchev Eager to Make Visit to U. S.

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Soviet diplomat says Soviet Communist Party Boss Nikita Khrushchev would welcome an invitation to visit the United States.

Second Secretary Anatoli N. Gorshenev said Khrushchev would like to make the trip in return for a visit to Russia by President Eisenhower.

The much-traveled Communist leader has hinted in the past he would like to visit the United States.

The United States has never given any encouragement to the idea. However, the Soviet second secretary's statement in an interview to a capital radio station Wednesday came only a few hours after Eisenhower hinted that a visit from Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov might be welcome.

Administration officials said today the President is waging a determined and heartfelt campaign to break down the barrier of U.S.-Soviet mistrust and bring about a peaceful world.

"His evident sincerity has deeply impressed America's friends abroad and has even gotten through to some foes. Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin recently described Eisenhower as a man of peace.

Eisenhower's latest effort to press toward easing world tensions came Wednesday when he told his news conference "There is nothing I wouldn't try experimentally in order to bring about better relations."

He made the statement when asked if he thought an exchange of visits between Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov would be helpful.

Eisenhower said it might. He said he "couldn't see any harm coming from a meeting between the two defense ministers if that could be arranged." He added a meeting "well might" lead to "something."

The Soviet Embassy, which usually will not comment on anything, was surprisingly prompt in calling the idea a good one. "Of course it is," a spokesman told a reporter when asked.

There was no indication the United States was about to formally propose such an exchange. Wilson apparently had not heard about the idea prior to its press conference mention. Eisenhower himself seemed to be commenting offhand on an idea newly brought up.

Williams Says Tax Levy Lost Plant to Ohio

LANSING, Mich. (UP) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams said today availability of an existing steel plant in Ohio, not taxes, influenced Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. to locate its new plant at Canton, Ohio, instead of Monroe, Mich.

"The state government, including my own office, has been active for several months in trying to induce Jones and Laughlin to locate in Monroe," Williams said.

"From what we know of the background of this matter, it is extremely doubtful taces were really the important factor in their decision to go to Ohio."

Williams cied a story published in the Chicago Journal of Commerce which quoted the company as saying the Canton site included 260,000 square feet of steel plant and by using the existing plant instead of building a new one at Monroe the company could get into production earlier.

"There wasn't a word about taxes in the Journal of Commerce account of why the company moved," Williams said. "We can expect from now until the next election that any misfortune of this kind will be blamed entirely on taxes and all other factors ignored."

Chartiers Flood Project Killed by House Group

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Supporters of the Chartiers Valley flood control project will fight to have a $1,286,000 appropriation restored by Congress in the rivers and harbors authorization bill.

The money for the project, designed to protect the area around Carnegie, Bridgeville and Washington, Pa., was knocked out of the bill by the House Public Works Committee on Wednesday.

John Gordon, chairman of the Chartiers Valley Flood Control Committee, said the committee action was a "terrible blow."

"We thought it was going through and will do everything possible to get the money," said Gordon.

The project previously had been approved by the Senate and the Army Engineers.

Last August, Chartiers Creek floods caused $6,243,000 damage in the valley. The Universal Cyclops Corp., Bridgeville, suffered more than $1,500,000 damage.

A report issued last April by the Pittsburgh Regional Planning Assn. showed the creek has flooded 54 times in the past 50 years. Six of the floods were very destructive, the report said.

Gordon said the Chartiers appropriation was vitally needed now so that "we can get a jump on this menace before we have another disaster."

The only hope remaining was to get the upcoming House-Senate conference to reconsider the appropriation and restore it to the package of projects for the Upper Ohio Valley.

The House committee recommended four Upper Ohio projects, including a $12,585,000 dam for the West Branch of the Mahoning River in Ohio. This project had been opposed by Pittsburgh transportation interests who regarded it as a disguised effort to begin a canal from Youngstown, Ohio, to Erie, Pa.

Other projects approved were: Sandy Lick Creek, Brookville, Pa., $1,188,000, and Meadow River, East Rainelle, W. Va., $708,000.

Syria-Israeli Borders Jammed

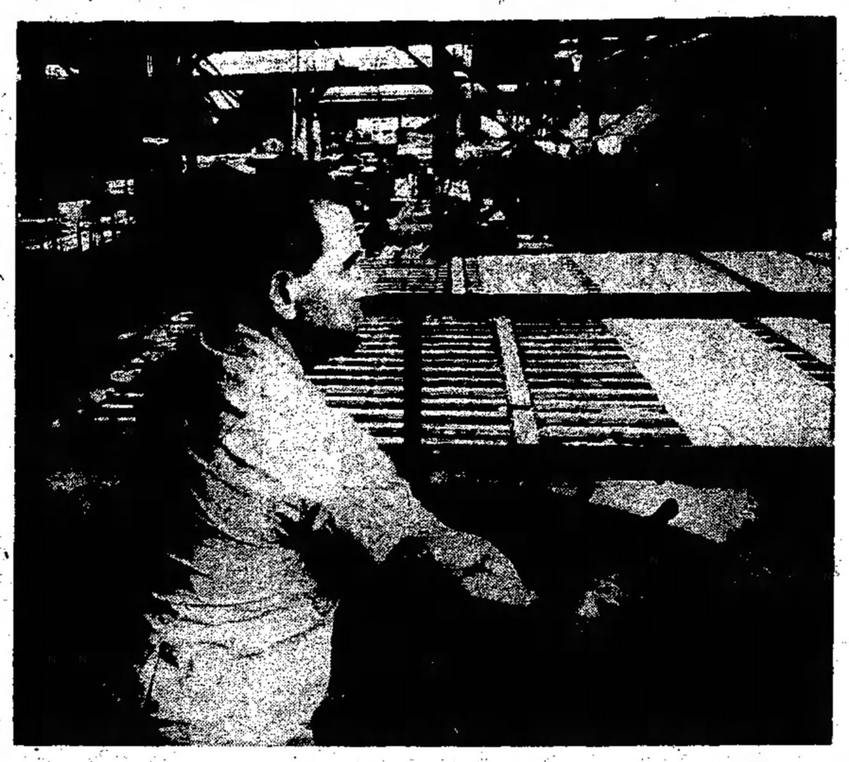
BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP)— Highways leading to the tense Syria-Israeli border are clogged with Syrian troop reinforcements moving into the area, reliable sources said today. Syria also was reported to have cancelled all army leaves.

The same sources quoted Syrian army officers as saying Israel had massed artillery and men at its border with Syria and in the demilitarized zones where Israel used tanks last week against Syrian guns in a ten-hour border battle.

A report from Damascus said an army alert was declared in Syria at start of the troop movements, but it was not established here whether the alert was regional or nationwide.

Franco Congratulated

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower sent a congratulatory message today to Generalissimo Franco on Spain's national holiday.



NEW INSTALLATION AT DONORA MILL — John Choratch, cooling bed operator at the Donora Steel Works of the American Steel & Wire Division, operates the controls at the plant's new billet cooling bed. This modern equipment replaces obsolete facilities which formerly handled the billets. Heretofore, the billets were transported by crane to the beds.

Donora Billet Plant Put into Operation

New billet cooling facilities were put into operation today at the Donora Steel Works.

A spokesman for the parent American Steel and Wire Division said the installation is part of a continuing modernization program at the Donora plant.

Primarily installed to process 30 foot long, 1,000 pound billets for the Division's Cuyahoga Work's rod mill in Cleveland, the new equipment replaces old billet handling facilities that were last improved in 1950.

U. F. Corsini, general superintendent at the Donora works, pointed out that the flexibility of the new equipment enables workers to process a greater volume of billets.

An integral part of the modern addition is the double faced straight edge which automatically delivers the billets to either side of the billet tables on to six cooling beds. Heretofore, the billets were transported by crane to the billet handling facilities.

After cooling, the billets can now either be loaded into transfer cars, weighed and shipped directly to the customer or if necessary, further processed at the local mill.

Three Sailors Killed by 'King Sized' Grenade

NEW LONDON Conn. (UP) — Three sailors were killed and eight others injured, four seriously, by a "king sized hand grenade" which misfired Wednesday night aboard the Navy escort vessel Somersworth.

The bodies of the dead were "severely mangled" by fragments from the 2½ pound charge of TNT in the grenade which is used in underwater sound experiments, Capt. Walter Wellham, chief medical officer at the Navy base here.

The Somersworth was conducting "test operations" 100 miles off Montauk Point, eastern tip of Long Island, when the explosion occurred at 5:45 p.m. on the forecastle deck, the Navy said.

From first reports Navy investigators believe a time fuse on the charge may have been defective. A board of officers here is conducting an investigation of the accident, the Navy said.

Wellham said the flying steel fragments tore holes in the bodies of the dead. One arm was missing from one body, he said. He also said he had reports some of the four seriously injured were in poor condition.

Pupil Cost Is Up to $319.67

HARRISBURG (UP)—The average cost of educating a pupil in Pennsylvania's public schools may be more than $319.67 a year.

The state Public Instruction Department reported today that was the cost two years ago, the last year for which pupil costs were compiled in a statistical survey called "The Cost of Johnny's Education is Rising."

But the agency reported the average cost has been going up at the rate of $17 a year since 1950. In 1954 it was $302.64, while in 1950 it was $234.70.

The 1955 cost of $319.67 was broken down into three major expenditures — operating expenses, $264.19; debt service, $32.40 and capital outlay, $23.08.

Crewmen Killed In Jet Crash

ABILENE, Tex. (UP) — A B47 Stratojet, taking off from Dyess Air Force Base, nosed to earth Wednesday night, erupting into an explosion seen 15 miles away and killing its four crewmen.

Witnesses said the jet bomber was only about 200 feet in the air after taking off when it suddenly "hung in the air," nosed down and crashed into a creek just off the runway.

Persons 15 miles from the scene reported seeing the blast, which scattered pieces of wreckage over 1,500 yards about the scene.

Nams of the dead pilot, navigator, observer and crew chief were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Rules Teacher Can Inflict 'Reasonable' Punishment

Har-Brack High Instructor Wins Court Appeal

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A three-judge court has ruled a teacher has a right to inflict "reasonable" corporal punishment on a pupil to enforce discipline.

The ruling was issued Wednesday in favor of Roy Beck, a teacher at Har-Brack High School in Natrona Heights, in spite of a previous jury verdict against him.

The jury verdict had awarded $121 to the parents of Raymond Chodkowski for medical and dental expenses incurred by their son. The parents had charged Beck struck Raymond, now 20, and a Marine, in the mouth with his fist on Jan. 21, 1954.

The case was heard on appeal by Judges Samuel A. Weiss, Henry X. O'Brien and John T. Duff of the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court. Weiss wrote the opinion.

Reasonable Punishment

In the opinion, the court said it did not believe the practice of permitting a jury to determine whether punishment was reasonable "to be sound or a proper measuring rod in enforcing discipline and demanding respect for law and order."

"This court en banc, following a most careful review and study of the facts in this case and the greater problems and implications involving society as a whole, believes beyond question that the punishment inflicted was reasonable, regardless of the injuries, and therefore we believe that this issue should not have been submitted to the jury," the opinion stated.

The opinion noted that teachers fear "reprisals or law suits" and therefore fail or refuse to administer "old-fashioned disciplinary action—the kind we all remember to our benefit."

Beck has been a teacher for 43 years, 35 of them at Har-Brack.

Cancer Society Expert Claims Cigarettes Guilty

WASHINGTON (UP)—An American Cancer Society epert told congressional investigators today that cigarette smoking is a cause of lung cancer and has a "hevere effect" on a number of other diseases.

Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, the society's research director, said "evidence that smoking is a serious health hazard has been accumulating slowly since about 1915."

He said recent studies have produced "overwhelming" evidence that cigarette smoking "is a causative factor of great importance in the occurrence of lung cancer."

He said there has been an "alarming trend in the death rates from lung cancer," with the number of deaths rising from 2,500 in 1930 to an estimated 29,000 in 1956.

Hammond said cigarette smoking "causes an increase" in deaths from heart disease and has a "severe effect" on patients with peptic ulcers and Buerger's disease. He also said "there is evidence that smoking has an effect on death rates from respiratory diseases other than lung cancer."

Hammond was the opening witness at a House Government Operations subcommittee investigation of filter cigarettes.

Dr. Clarence Cook Little, chairman of the scientific advisory board to the tobacco industry's research committee, challenged the claims of a cause-and-effect relation between smoking and lung cancer.

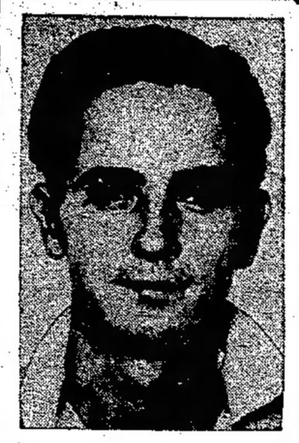
Job Security Bill Rejected by Leader

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader has rejected as "a fraud" Republican legislation spelling out tenure job security for professional and technical employes in five state departments.



SHEPPARD, AGAIN — Cleveland authorities place little credence in the story of Donald J. Wedler (above) 22-year-old Florida escapee, who told a "conscience" story to the Deland, Fla., sheriff that in July 1954 he was in Cleveland, bought narcotics, drove over a bridge, entered a home, went past a man sleeping on a couch and went upstairs and hit a woman "two or three times" with an iron pipe, then had a tussle with the man downstairs. Cleveland police were analyzing the statement in view of the Marilyn Sheppard murder.

"This bill masquerades as a bill to provide job security for state professional and technical employes," Leader said. "This is deception at its worst."

The measure, pushed through the Legislature after the GOP scuttled Leader's attempts for flat civil service coverage of 10,000 state workers, would have provided job security for state workers employed two consecutive years or more after Sept. 1.

For practical purposes, the legislation would not have been felt until Sept. 1, 1959, seven months after Leader ends his term of office.

Leader said the bill was "diversionary in approach" and "hinders rather than helps" the fight for good government.

Others Vetoes

Also vetoed were measures to:

—Require any changes in public assistance be approved by the General Assembly or by the Joint State Government's executive committee and the House and Senate Appropriations Committee chairmen between sessions. Leader said it would handicap the activities of the Public Assistance Department which must meet prevailing economic conditions.

—Transfer control and supervision over several juvenile institutions from the Welfare Department to the Justice Department. The governor said it "was not wise to separate one aspect of this function from the other juvenile activities performed by the Welfare Department and thus divide responsibility."

—Permit municipal and county health departments to regulate the sale of milk and milk products only with the approval of the State Agriculture Department. "The intrusion of a state agency into this sphere would defeat local administration of health matters," Leader said.

—Allow the state Agriculture Department to veto any rule or regulation made by a county health department which affects agricultural products. The governor said the bill would have seriously curtailed local administration of health matters and cast the department into a "dual and conflicting role."

—Force local housing authorities to reserve 10 per cent of new projects for rental to persons over 65 years old. The governor said the measure would discriminate against other eligible families.

—Eliminate the requirement for public hearings by third class city councils considering changes in zoning regulations. Leader termed the bill a "departure from the democratic processes."

—Transfer cost of construction or repair of municipal bridges and viaducts on state highways from cities and counties to the Commonwealth. Leader said the legislation would "encourage" cities to place highway facilities needing repairs under the state system to escape payment of their upkeep.

—Authorize the state Public School Building Authority to have prospective school sites examined to determine if construction can be made safely without danger of mine subsidence.

Lie Detector Claims Sheppard Suspect Truthful

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP) — The Court of Last Resort advised Gov. C. William O'Neill today that a preliminary lie detector test showed that Joseph Wedler told the truth in a Florida prison when he said he may have killed Marilyn Sheppard.

Wedler, an escapee from a Florida prison road gang, told authorities in Deland, Fla., he killed a woman in the Cleveland area on July 4, 1954, the night Mrs. Sheppard was killed. He did not mention Mrs. Sheppard by name in the statement he gave to Florida authorities.

The Ohio governor said he received a telegram from Earle Stanley Gardner, a writer of mystery stories, who conducts the court of last resort for a magazine.

The text of the telegram received by O'Neill:

"Alex Gregory completed preliminary tests at 1 a.m. Thursday, Florida time, after three hour interview. So far polygraph tests give no indication of falsehood.

"However, there are certain minor details in Wedler's story which do not agree with known facts. There is possibility these are due to the fact that Wedler admits being under influence of drugs at the time of the crime.

"While Gregory has so far found no indication of falsehood in repeated tests, he desires continued examination when the subject has been given a night of rest."

Alex Gregory gave the lie detector test for the court of last resort.

Local Police Can Now Arrest Out-of-Staters

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today signed legislation to permit police officers of third-class cities to arrest on sight non-residents of the Commonwealth violating traffic laws, although he conceded the bill was ineffective.

The governor said the legislation would allow policemen to make the arrest and direct the alleged violator to appear in the traffic court of the city.

But he pointed out the act is "by itself, innocuous since the Legislature neglected to pass companion legislation granting our third class cities the authority to establish traffic courts."

However, since approval of the bill will not alter existing procedures and will be the first step toward an improvement of those procedures in third class cities, I am approving it with a strong recommendation that the Legislature pass at its next session the necessary additional legislation," he said.

The bill was an amendment to the state's Motor Vehicle Code which permits Philadelphia and Pittsburgh police to take traffic ordinance violators suspected to be non-residents to court immediately, if the policeman has reason to believe the violator may not appear to answer a citation.

Leader also approved measures to:

—Require the state Mines and Minerals Department to keep records pertaining to anthracite mine inspectors, foremen, fire bosses and miners.

—Permit the use of acetylene burners, blow torches and "similar devices" in anthracite mines with permission from the district mine inspector.

—Authorize the use of recorders and modern reproduction methods by the bituminous mine inspector examing board and require records be held at least eight years.

—Require mines employing less than five men to have a person responsible for observance of safety laws normally handled by mine foremen in larger operations.

—Allow multiple blasting in mines after permission has been secured from the Mines Department.

—Change the minimum height in conveyor entries of mines from four to three feet if the miners use another mode of conveyance for entry.

—Permit fire bosses to use electric lamps powered by storage batteries provided he extinguishes the lamp when making an examination for gas.

Cinderella Story with 'Miss U. S. A.' Winner

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP) — Leona Gage, a black-haired Cinderella from Maryland who entered the Miss Universe contest with only $10 in her pocket, Wednesday night won the coveted title of Miss United States—in a borrowed dress.

The green - eyed, long - legged Miss Maryland drew cheers from the audience at the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium when she accepted the pearl crown from last year's Miss U.S.A. and Miss Universe, Carol Morris of Iowa.

The 21-year-old Leona and her cousin, Barbara Gage, had taken the two-way plane ticket Leona received as Miss Maryland and converted it into two one-way tickets, figuring to work their way back home if she lost.

At 5 feet 9½ inches, Miss Gage was the tallest of the contestants for the Miss U.S.A. title. She measures 36-23-36 and weighs 118 pounds.

The girls arrived in this seaport with only $20 between them that they had saved from modeling jobs.

In Leona's suitcase was a $45 gown she had bought at a sale in Baltimore. She wore that the first night of the world-wide beauty pageant. Wednesday night she paraded down the runway in a gown borrowed from a small dress shop in Long Beach.

"I went into see if I could buy a dress with our $20 and the man loaned it to me—he knew I was broke," she said with an embarrassed smile.

But now riches have come at last to Leona. The prizes include $2,000 cash, a world-wide tour, a complete wardrobe, a housetrailer, and she will represent the United States in the Miss World contest in Europe.

The runners-up in order of selection were Miss Utah, Charlotte Sheffield; Miss West Virginia, Ruth Marie Parr; Miss Nevada, Joan Adams, and Miss Nebraska, Carolyn McGirr.

AD Agency and Reader's Digest Break Relations

NEW YORK (UP)—The advertising agency of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc., has given up the account of the Reader's Digest, which it has held for 28 years, because of "an obvious conflict of interest" between it and another client, the American Tobacco Co.

The magazine published last month an article which questioned the effectiveness of filter tip cigarettes with an analysis showing how much tar and nicotine was present in the smoke of various brands of cigarettes.

Charles H. Brower, executive vice-president and general manager of BBD&O emphatically denied a report that the tobacco company had ordered the agency to choose between it and the magazine. American Tobacco was estimated to have a 22 million dollar annual advertising budget as compared to about a million and a quarter budget for the magazine.

Northern Plains Shaken Up with 92-Mile Winds

By UNITED PRESS

Thunderstorms with winds up to 92 miles an hour shook sections of the northern plains for the second straight night Wednesday in an outbreak of scattered weather violence around the nation.

At least four deaths were blamed on the weather, three of them caused by lightning.

At Knoxville, Tenn., Mrs. Earl Baker Jr. and her sister, Sarah Coker, 11, were killed Wednesday when they were struck by lightning during an electrical storm that touched off a rash of fires. Damage in the blazes was estimated at $80,000 to $100,000.

Lightning striking twice in the same place killed Mrs. Harvey King, 25, Dade City, Fla. Mrs. King, carrying her infant son, was inspecting a tree that had been struck by lightning two days ago when a second bolt hit the tree, killing her. The child, Roland, escaped injury.

The storms broke a heat wave that sent the mercury soaring to a record 107 degrees at Philip, and 101 at Pierre and Pickstown, S.D.

In Minneapolis, John Cody Parker sought to beat the heat by taking a swim in the Mississippi River Wednesday night and drowned when his body was swept downstream by the swift current.

Theft of Oil Map Case in Federal Courts

NEW YORK (UP)—A judge reserved decision Wednesday on a government request to transfer to Pittsburgh a motion by two brothers to suppress evidence against them in the theft of a million dollars worth of secret oil maps.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Hubert I. Teitelbaum, of Pittsburgh, argued the entire case, involving at least two other men and maps valued at $34,500,000, will be tried in Pittsburgh and thus the trial judge should rule on pre-trial motions.

Atty. Bernard Tompkins, counsel for the brothers, Emanuel Lester, 32, and Edward Leiberman, 30, said arguments on the motion should be heard in New York because the evidence was seized here.

Tomkins said the evidence was seized in a raid by 10 federal agents last Dec. 18 on the U.S. Tackless Corp., a firm operated by the brothers.

Federal Judge Edmund L. Palmieri ordered both sides to submit briefs.

The maps, said to pinpoint possible location of U.S. and Canadian oil deposits, were stolen from the Pittsburgh offices of the Gulf Oil Corp.

1,250 Death Toll In Iran Earthquake

TEHRAN, Iran (UP) — About 1,250 persons now are believed to have been killed by the earthquakes that struck in northern Iran during the past three weeks, officials said today.

They said a higher casualty estimate of more than 2,000 dead was based on unnecessary fears that typhoid and other infectious diseases would spread through the area.

Boy Scouts Begin to Fold Tents as Fourth Jamboree Ends Tonight

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UP)—Some 32,500 Boy Scouts began folding their tents today and making preparations for the closing ceremonies of the fourth National Jamboree.

The week-long gathering here was scheduled to end tonight with a candlelight ceremony in the sprawling natural amphitheater.

The irrepressible gaiety of youth was characterized by last-minute preparations and visits to new found jamboree friends in other parts of the huge encampment as the railroads prepared to haul the tired but happy scouts to their home towns around the nation.

The official closing of the jamboree too was the starting signal for some 180 scouts to embark at New York Friday for Plymouth, England — a vanguard of 1,750 scouts who will attend the 50th anniversary Jubilee Jamboree in Warwickshire, England in August.

The Jubilee Jamboree will gather together some 25,000 Boy Scouts from all nations in celebration of 50 years of international scouting, and also laud the 100th anniversary birth of the scouts' founder—Lord Baden-Powell, who started the first troop on his return from the Boer War in 1907.

The blaze of pageantry which marked the new-found friendships with boys from far away states, and the experiences of camping and mingling together will long be remembered by the boys after they reach home.

Nuclear Device Firing Postponed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) — The Atomic Energy Commission early today postponed for 24 hours the firing of a below average size nuclear device because of unfavorable winds.

The device was scheduled to be fired at 6:30 a.m. p.d.t. The test was rescheduled for the same time Friday.

It was the second time the AEC put off detonating the charge, expected to equal 6,000 tons of TNT, because of unfavorable weather and technical problems. The test involves firing the nuclear device from a balloon 500 feet above the Nevada Proving Grounds.

Cops and Crooks

THE DISMISSAL of three veteran members of the Pittsburgh police force by Mayor David L. Lawrence because the officers apparently did not recognize — or said they didn't — a notorious numbers racketeer points up some aspects of the relationship between law enforcement authorities and professional lawbreakers.

It is easy to forget some of these aspects when a community lives for a long time, as Westmoreland County has for instance, under a system in which politicians and public officials and criminal elements cooperate for their mutual benefit.

Cops and crooks are — or should be — natural enemies. Such officials as district attorneys, county detectives, mayors, chiefs of police, beat patrolmen and even constables are under oath and compulsion of law to bring to justice people they know to be breaking the laws.

But in an environment where organized crime operates with virtual impunity the year around, it is not uncommon for law enforcement officials and known racketeers to mingle socially as well as politically. We have it from reliable sources, for example, that a leading numbers racketeer in Monessen entertained some of the city's most prominent politicians and office-holders at an elaborate "victory" celebration in his home following the May primary election.

Undoubtedly if they are going to be effective, law enforcement officials need to have speaking acquaintances in the underworld. And Mayor Lawrence is quite correct in disciplining policemen for not recognizing a professional law-breaker when they had him in their custody.

But this is not the same as the kind of toleration — even fraternization — that prevails between the supposed guardians of the law and those who systematically violate it for profit in communities where racket influence reaches into political life.

We cannot consider that our homes and our institutions are safe when the cop and the robber are not the natural enemies the law requires them to be.

The First Hurdle

THE SENATE'S decision, by a vote of 71 to 18, to take up the civil rights bill is perhaps not as great a victory for civil rights as the large majority indicates. But it is an important victory nevertheless, since obviously without this decision there could have been no further consideration of the bill.

The 18 opposition votes all came from the southern Democratic bloc. These are the same senators who will have to furnish the lung power in the expected filibuster when the bill itself comes to be considered.

It is an indication of America's backwardness in putting its professed ideals into practice that for a legislative body just to agree to consider a bill to protect the basic constitutional rights of citizens should be regarded as a victory. In this advanced stage of our development as a self-governing people we cannot be very proud of this state of affairs.

The Senate battle will soon be joined on the basis of the Eisenhower administration's bill. It promises to be a long struggle. It may also be a bitter one, depending upon the lengths to which the southern Democrats are willing to go.

But there are pretty fair prospects that there may emerge the first law since the post-Civil War period which can be used to fortify the liberties of our citizens. Let us hope this is the outcome.

A Sensible Veto

GOVERNOR George Leader did the eminently sensible thing recently when he vetoed a bill whose practical effect would have been to stop the physical growth of many Pennsylvania cities.

This measure would have made it impossible for cities to annex territory from second class townships except with the consent of a majority of all the voters of the affected township. As the law now stands, a city may annex any portion of such a township upon the petition of a majority of the residents of the portion affected.

In vetoing the bill, Governor Leader pointed out that annexation is a fair and orderly method of providing adequate municipal services for areas which build up to the point where they can no longer be properly served by township facilities.

It is perhaps understandable that township authorities are anxious to hold on as long as possible to their political realms as well as their tax sources. But government exists, after all, to serve the people, and the people are entitled to the most effective service available.

Governor Leader's veto is simply a recognition of this principle which the legislature, undoubtedly under the influence of township lobbyists, chose to ignore

Merry-Go-Round—

Southerners Make Smart Maneuvers

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — One of the most skillful jobs of Senate maneuvering in years has been done by Sen. Dick Russell of Georgia and southern leaders in the civil rights debate. Even before this week's vote to take up the bill, they had come close to arranging private deals by which they should win about 90 per cent of their points.

Mr. Pearson

Southern leaders still have two opponents: Vice President Nixon on one side, and an embattled group of northern liberals led by Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois on the other.

Nixon, who sees the huge bloc of Negro votes almost within Republican grasp, is determined that there be no throw-away on civil rights. As a result, he has aroused the undying enmity of southern Senators. They say privately that they can get along with Nixon's fellow Californian, Bill Knowland. Only last January Knowland voted with them on the ending of filibusters, and they expect him to compromise now.

But Nixon is tougher. The bitterness against him is intense.

Irony is that the liberal Democrats, including Douglas, McNamara of Michigan, Clark of Pennsylvania, Pastore of Rhode Island, Neuberger of Oregon, now find themselves led by a man they have always opposed, Senator Knowland. Or if he compromises, then they may have to go over to Nixon, a man they have opposed even more. For years they fought for civil rights when the going was really tough. Now they find the play taken away from them by GOP Johnnies-come-lately.

Meanwhile, here are the shrewd moves made by southern leaders to strip the civil rights bill down to a skeleton even before the real debate got started.

1. Jury Trial — Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas has a jury-trial amendment just about tied up in blue ribbons. A good many Republicans and several northern Democrats are secretly ready to wipe out trial-by-judge in case a judge's injunction is violated, and substitute trial-by-jury — in many cases trial-by-white-jury.

2. Other civil rights — This is Section 3 of the bill which embraces all civil rights, not merely voting rights, and would include the enforcement of school desegregation.

President Eisenhower and Georgia's Dick Russell have now cut a lot of support from this part of the bill. After Dick told the Senate this would permit the federal government to force segregation on the south with bayonets, the President announced that he didn't "participate in drawing up the exact language of the proposals" and that his only objective was "to prevent anybody illegally from interfering with any individual's right to vote."

Eisenhower obviously wasn't familiar with his own power as President, nor hadn't read the civil rights bill which has been under consideration in Congress for two years and under active debate for nine months. He didn't know, among other things, that as President he has always the right to send troops into any part of the United States, and that in this half century other presidents have sent them into portions of the south.

Ike's confusion about the "exact language" of the bill has bolstered Russell's charge that the bill is "an example of cunning draughtsmanship," and has helped another proposed compromise. Many northern leaders now agree that the bill should not pass unless it makes clear that military power will not be used to enforce civil rights.

3. Voting rights only — Southern leaders also want the language of the civil rights bill confined strictly and solely to the protection of voting rights, and they have lined up enough backstage votes among Republicans so that this compromise may pass too. GOP Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota was picked by southern leaders to spearhead this compromise.

All this happened before the civil rights bill itself came up for debate.

Washington Pipeline

Oregon's Sen. Wayne Morse is planning a bill to make the Commissioner of Internal Revenue completely non-political, serving a 15-year term. Morse says Internal Revenue has been in politics up to the armpits. He suspects it has been threatening Negro Congressman Adam Clayton Powell with tax prosecution to make him side against Hell's Canyon. (Powell's three secretaries have been either convicted or indicted on kickback charges.). . . Many members of the American Bar Association are skeptical about the tax deductions to be charged by their colleagues for expenses of their trip to London. By attending the London meeting of the Bar Association, many members intend to charge off their trans-Atlantic traveling expenses as business expense. Then they can take a further vacation in Europe for almost nothing. Big question mark with some lawyers is how the Treasury will rule on this later.

Weakness of Storm Warnings

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The mounting Louisiana death toll in the wake of Hurricane Audrey leaves unanswered a grim and urgent question.

The question: Could the hundreds of lives which were lost have been saved if the hurricane warnings had been more effective?

Mr. Drummond

To find a useful answer — an answer which doesn't seek self-justification for anybody and which will help avert the worst of tragedy another time — this question has to be divided further.

Did the Weather Bureau warnings accurately and in time forecast the path of the hurricane and the areas of greatest danger?

Were the warnings well phrased and well communicated to the people who most needed them?

Did most of the population of Cameron Parish and elsewhere in the 1,400 square miles where the fury of the wind and tidal waves struck hardest, discount the warnings and perversely ignore them?

In a word, who was mostly to blame — the meteorologists, the writers of the warnings or the public?

Opinions Differ

At the scene of death and destruction in Cameron, where nerves are understandably frayed and where sorrow and hurt will long exist, I found totally divergent judgments. Some who left well ahead of the full force of the hurricane said they pled with others to go with them. Many who remained until it was too late angrily blamed their plight upon the inaccuracy and inadequacy of the warnings.

Among those who should be closest to the facts, there was no agreement.

Val Peterson, former Civil Defense administrator, who toured the area as the President's representative a day after Audrey struck, said unqualifiedly: "Few, if any, people needed to die. They had ample warning and could have left if they had wanted to."

Sheriff O. B. Carter of Cameron said the opposite. He told the editor of the Lake Charles "American Press," Ken Dixon, that "had the hurricane not struck until predicted, we would have evacuated 90 per cent of our women and children."

Where lies the truth — or nearest the truth?

The reason for asking where lies te truth now, even when sensitivities may be lacerated and tender, is that the lives of many other Americans in the face of oncoming hurricanes this summer and next, this year and next, will depend upon finding the answer and willingness to do something about it.

I have talked with experts at the Weather Bureau, with Cameron officials on the spot, with civil defense authorities, and at the risk of ploughing in were angels should fear to tread, I offer the following as a beginning answer to this literally life-and-death question:

1 — The meteorologists of the United States Weather Bureau did their job and did it well. Hurricane Audrey was as well if not better identified, plotted and predicted than any other hurricane.

2 — What happened then? What went wrong? This is what went wrong, at least in my judgment: The text — the phrasing — of the warnings was not sufficiently blunt, sufficiently vivid, sufficiently clear and admonitory. They were written too "scientifically" and were not written to accomplish what they intended — to warn people to action, people who might have some very understandable human resistance to deserting their homes and possessions.

Wording Faulty

In several of the warnings there were references to what would happen "Thursday afternoon" — when the full force of the wind and tide would come — and the warnings, in my judgment, slurred over, though they stated, the need for moving to higher land earlier.

The power of the hurricane began striking Cameron about 8 a. m. Thursday morning. Several thousand people in Cameron Parish thought they had been warned of a danger which would come "Thursday afternoon," though the warnings had cited Thursday afternoon only as the time of fullest peril. But "Thursday afternoon" was fixed in their minds and I can't escape the conviction that the warnings were gravely deficient in form, however accurate in substance.

The science of meteorology did its job.

The users of the English language didn't do theirs.

There's a gap here that grievously needs to be bridged if more lives aren't to be unnecessarily lost.

The Woman's View—

The Stocking Game

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)— The stocking industry plans to give itself a shot in the leg this fall.

The National Assn. of Hosiery Manufacturers said sales in recent years have been a little on the seamy side, mostly because the industry insists on giving women beige, beige, beige, instead of a whole color range.

An official of DuPont, a major producer of nylon yarn, said there is another reason: Decline in the "sexual significance" of feminine gams.

Association President William F. Williamson reported manufacturers' shipments of full-length hosiery fell to 713 million pairs last year, down from 721 million in 1950.

"The slight drop has been showing for 10 years," Williamson said. "But it is not a trend. It is more of an irritation."

"Some people say it is because of the increase in bare-leggedness," Williamson said. "I doubt it, although our worst sales months are June and July.

"I just think women aren't buying as many hose because we offer them too narrow a choice of color and construction. The accent has been on the neutral shades to go with everything.

"No manufacturer can expect a woman to wear stockings all the time. But when she does, we should give her a wardrobe of hosiery."

Williamson said another reason for the sales sag should be cured as our population changes. The depression birth rate was low, so there are fewer women in the 18 to 25 year age group—the industry's best customer. But Williamson predicted that in the next five years, there would be five million potential customers in this bracket.

The DuPont Co. has released a consumer study it sponsored, showing that a high percentage of women now are content to go bare-legged on occasion, when at one time stockings would have been a must.

"...There is clear evidence that the social necessity of wearing hosiery...has lost some of its compelling strength in the face of modern living and the changed social position of women," said the report.

"Women seem to feel that the sexual significance of their legs is declining," said D. M. Colyer, consumer research supervisor at DuPont. He said the emphasis has shifted since the hey-day of Marlene Dietrich and Betty Grable.

What Do Men Notice

Even so, two-thirds of the women 20 and over in the study said they believe legs are the first thing a man notices about woman. Only half the teenagers, 15 to 19, felt such was true.

Whatever the cause for the decrease, the industry hopes for a run on hosiery counters because of the dozens of new colors for fall...and because of fashion's new accent on hemline interest in both daytime and evening clothes.

"We'll costume the legs too," said the association.

Say a woman has purchased a fire red suit for fall. With it, she can wear hosiery with a subtle, shades to complement it.

To go with the lush fabrics featured in evening wear, the hosiery industry is out with a whole range of "gem tones" — ruby, sapphire, gold, amethyst, garnet and topaz.

And since this fall fur abounds as trimming, fur colors also move into hosiery. They carry such names as golden sable, honey sable, red fox, black mink, and iridescent leopard.

Behind The News—

Monarchy May Return To Spain, Portugal

By CHARLES M. McCANN

The ancient institution of monarchism may be headed toward a comeback in both Spain and Portugal.

Mr. McCann

In Spain, Generalissimo Francisco Franco has finally made official his intention to put a Bourbon king on the throne when he either retires from office or dies.

And in Portugal, Ppemier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar has caused considerable speculation by saying in a speech: "The day might come when the monarchist solution might be the national solution."

The situation in both Spain and Portugal is a remainder that a lot of people believe that some countries which now are republics, in addition to Spain and Portugal, might be better off if they were ruled by constitutional monarchs.

Franco's Intentions Specific

It has long been pretty certain that Franco planned to restore the monarchy in his country. In fact, as far back as 1947, Franco promulgated a law which declared Spain to be monarchy and empowered him to name a king.

But Franco has never pinned himself down as specifically as he did Monday, when Luis Carrero Blanco, cabinet minister in charge of his office, told Parliament: "When the generalissimo is not with us, the destinies of Spain will be directed by a monarchy."

It is generally taken for granted that Franco's candidate for the throne is 19-year-old Prince Juan Carlos. Juan Carlos is the son of Don Juan, the actual heir to the throne as the son of the late King Alfonso XIII. Alfonso was overthrown in 1931.

Juan Still In Running

United Press dispatches from Madrid say that Juan has not been entirely erased from the picture. But it looks as if Juan Carlos is the man. He is being given a big build - up. Franco has taken responsibility for his training. He has just completed a two-year course in the Spanish military academy, and has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the army. In the fall, he will start a two - year course in the naval academy.

In Portugal, 49 - year - old Dom Duarte Nuno is the candidate for the throne if the monarchy is restored. He is a kinsman, in the Braganza family, of the King Manuel, who was overthrown in 1910.

A revived monarchy in either Spain or Portugal would be a constitutional one, in which the sovereign was ruler by title and parliament ruler in fact. That system has worked out pretty well in countries like Great Britain, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden.

Some Simple Ideas For Beating the Heat

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) —How to beat the heat—sensible steps you may want to consider.

—Dress correctly. Clothing holds heat. Discard it and don a Presleyesque ensemble. Go to work wearing only sideburns and a low-slung guitar. If your co-workers get all shook up, their cool stares will help lower the office temperature.

—Talk correctly. Avoid hot words and phrases like "income tax," "brush-off pitch," "Khrushchev," and "Sonali Das Gupta." Say easeful, cool, lulling things like "vacation in Norway," "Marilyn Monroe's skin tone," "hammock-time in Little America," "ho-o-o hum."

—Work correctly. Sit down. Lean back. Put your feet on a desk. Stare vacantly. Avoid pursing your lips (any muscle flexing produces heat). Don't even flex your brain.

Jazz Records Cool

—Be clever. When outdoors, take along a personal air conditioner. Tie a small record player atop your head and keep yourself drenched with modern advanced jazz. It's cool, man.

—Try psychology. Withdraw from the hot world. Try to imagine you're a cucumber in a shady glen. If your friends remark that you're turning green, you're a success. Tell 'em, it's only your chlorophyll showing.

—Be scientific. Use simple hydraulics. Keep a pail of ice water at your feet. Your blood makes a complete circulation of your body every 20 minutes. rom time to time, put your toe in the pail and hold it there 20 minutes, icewatering your system.

—Be calm. Particularly at the beach, with all those Bikinis sauntering around. Excitement only makes you warmer. Save it for next winter.

Avoid Any Food

—Eat properly. Food is heat. Avoid it. Instead, take frequent baths in a solution of water and equal parts of tranquilizer and pep pills. Save the solution for repeated use.

—Drink properly. Sample the air conditioning before you patronize the bar. Select a very cold bar, slap down a dollar, and order a hot buttered rum. The bartender's reaction may send you both to the cooler.

—Be a scream. Meet a friend and say: "Know why it's warming up in Siberia? Because Khrushy turned on the heat in the Kremlin." This kind of thing will cool off any friendship.

Mon-Yough Preps Await Second Test

Passing their first test with flying colors the Mon-Yough Prep League All-Stars now await a Saturday game at Charleroi Stadium with the Greensburg Stars. The local Preps downed Big Sewickley Monday at New Stanton, 8-2. Belle Vernon's Rudy Houseman was one of the main cogs in the win as was Lenny Rechichar of the Smithton-Jacobs Creek League. Bud Morrison of the S-JC loop did the hurling. . . . Jimmy Ralston, one of Monessen's all-time great gridders is home from military service. Ralston, who later, was a standout at Yale, is the Mon Valley Football Conference's second highest all-time scorer with 149 points for the 1949 season, just three points short of Deacon Dan Towler's 152 in 1945.

Perry Township football coach Don Mains, who doubles as manager of the Perryopolis Mon Valley League entry has played every position on the team this season. He and Tom Havadich are the only holdovers from Perry's crack 1956 nine . . . The sports-minded Belle Vernon American Legion Post is holding its annual fete this week and numerous valley sports figures have visited the Post grounds during the first few days of the affair. The Legionnaires are planning a trip to Pittsburgh for a Pirate game soon. They annually witness a baseball game or two, a couple of pro football tilts and also take in fight cards . . . Frank Pizzica, well-known valley auto-dealer, was a personal guest of his pal, Stan Musial, during last week's All-Star game in St. Louis.

Several years back district colleges, especially the class B schools, used to play some of their games in various high school stadiums in the Tri-State area but haven't done so for quite some time. This coming season, however, Waynesburg and Westminster will do battle at Uniontown High Stadium. The Jacket-Titan game is annually one of the top small college tilts, often deciding the mythical Class B College crown . . . 91-year-old Golfer 'Shoots Weight'

Have you complained lately of feeling too old to participate in any sports activity? Well, if you're under 91, Dr. Edmund W. Laidley of Carmichaels, will make you look mighty silly. Regularly, he plays a round of golf at the Greene County Country Club and "shoots his age" as he puts it. To boot, he dislikes the idea of riding around the course in a golf cart and carries his own clubs, confining them to one wood (no. 3) and three or four irons. He formerly golfed at Nemacolin Country Club . . . Here's the answer to yesterday's question? . . . The Major League team which won a pennant by the largest margin was the Pittsburgh Pirate squad (yes, Pirates) managed by Fred Clarke. The Bucs did it in 1902 by 27½ games . . . Now try this one: Who is the oldest currently active major league baseball player?

Golf's Top Hitters Tab 300-Yard Drive Fallacy

By OSCAR FRALEY

DAYTON, Ohio (UP) — Take it from the big hitters playing in the PGA golf championship today, the biggest fallacy in golf is the 300-yard drive.

Under normal conditions, without the shot being downhill with the wind behind it, there ain't no such thing.

That's the opinion of top pros, including such sluggers as Slammin' Sammy Snead and Mike Souchak, the new PGA driving champion.

Souchak won the PGA tee title as the current match play tournament got under way with an average of 243 yards. Snead was second with a 240-yard average.

With more than 100 of the nation's top pros competing in the driving championship, it is rather amazing that the longest ball of any one which was struck was a 254-yard, 10-inch belt by Mike Krak of Morgantown, W.Va.

Cites Woman Pros

Even the women pros have been heard to toss around such tee shot claims as 250 to 270 yards and Snead figures they have to be hitting off the top of Pike's Peak.

"On the level, I just don't think under normal conditions anybody is going to hit the ball more than 260 to 265 yards," he insists.

"Maybe George Bayer could hit it 300 yards because I've seen him carry 250 yards," asserts Souchak. "But I would have to guess that even 'Big Moose' can't do better than 280 to 285 yards. But he's in a class all by himself and the average for any top hitter would be closer to 260 yards."

"Nobody is going to hit the ball 300 yards," Tommy Bolt asserted. "And I don't think that even Bayer is going to hit over 275 yards on the flat, normal fairway."

Leland Gibson summed it up succinctly: "On the flat, with a good carry and run, the best of your pros won't average better than 250 yards."

So the next time some guy tells you about his 300-yard blast, tell him to get out his money and his measure. Unless, of course, he's standing on top of the Empire State Building.

Ozarks Protest 6-1 Loss to Perry

Home Run Ruling In Fifth Cause Of 'Rhubarb'

Perryopolis handed the Monessen Ozarks a 6-1 defeat at Ninth Street Park here last night but the game was played under protest from the fifth inning.

The protest came on a homer by big Bob Wilkie of Perry who clubbed one over the left field fence with Doh Mains who had singled, on base. Umpire Bob Potts reputedly called Wilkie out for not touching first base on his way around the bases. Informed he had failed to touch the base when he reached the dugout, Wilkie went back out and ran the bases a second time, this time being ruled safe.

New Ball

Potts claims the reason for the reverse stemmed from the fact that a new ball was not put in play, the home run ball coming back to the field where first baseman Bob Mastracci called for it and tagged first.

Monessen took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on Mastracci's homer but the lead was shortlived as Perry tied it in the third and went ahead to stay on Dante DiVirgilio's homer in the fourth with Kenny Sams on base.

Ron Danko tripled for the Ozarks but was left stranded.

Extra Bases

The only other extra base blow of the game was Wilkie's double, which added to his homer gave his hitting honors for the game.

Jack Shepler started on the mound for the locals but gave way to Bruce Pezzelle in the fifth. Don Mains went all the way for the winners.

Next start for the Ozarks is at New Eagle tomorrow night.

Cro-Ams On Top Again

Wildness on the part of Raven hurlers plus some fine hurling by the Cro-Ams' Steve Telegraphis and Steve Rockovich added up to a 10-5 victory for the Cro-Ams in City Softball League play last night.

10 Walks

Although held to only five hits, the winners took advantage of 10 bases on balls. Meanwhile Telegraphis and Rockovich were allowing the Ravens only five safe blows.

"Chip" DeFelicis of the Ravens was the only batter to get more than hit, singling safely twice while John Pallini of the Cro-Ams doubled for the only extra base blow of the game.

9-1 Mark

The victory gave the league-leaders a 9-1 mark to second-place PNA's 7-3.

Action continues tonight with PNA battling ULBA.

Gonzales, Hoad Prep for Match

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UP) — Pancho Gonzales, the world's top tennis player, and young Lew Hoad, the pretender to Pancho's throne, warm up today for their expected Sunday showdown in the Tournament of Champions.

Gonzales, who already has beaten Tony Trabert and Ken Rosewall in the round-robin action, meets Frank Sedgman of Australia in one of today's singles matches, while Hoad, who got $125,000 from Jack Kramer to turn pro, meets Rosewall in an encore of their Australian national final last year.

Hoad kept his record clean at two victories in as many starts Wednesday when he whipped Pancho Segura, the pigeon - toed South American with the two-handed forehand, 6-1, 7-5, 6-2.

In Wednesday's other action, Sedgman came from behind to beat Trabert, 2-6, 6-4, 8-6, 6-3, while in doubles, Gonzales and Rosewall teamed to beat Kramer and Hoad, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4.

Fondy Credits Bragan For Current Climb

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Dee Fondy, who batted his way to the ranks of the National League leaders shortly after he put on a Pittsburgh Pirate uniform, ascribed his rise today to "old school ties."

"Manager (Bobby) Bragan has been the most helpful manager I ever played under," Fondy said as he awaited his turn at the Forbes Field batting cage.

"I was with the Brooklyn organization for five years and I was assigned to the Fort Worth farm club in 1948 when Bragan got his first chance to manage. I learned a lot of baseball during the three seasons I played with him in the Texas League.

"Sam Narron and Clyde Sukeforth were coaches with the Dodgers. Now both are with the Pirates and it's like coming home to be with them. The old school ties have helped me."

Fondy led the league batters for a spell and has been in the charmed circle for about six weeks. He came to the Pirates May 2 from the Chicago Cubs along with Gene Baker in a straight player trade for Dale Long and Lee Walls.

Vejar Extends Joey Giardello

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—The managers of middleweights Joey Giardello and Chico Vejar considered a return September match today because of Wednesday night's excellent fight at Exposition Center in which Giardello won a unanimous decision.

I extended Giardello's unbeaten string to 11 straight.

Unranked Vejar, the 4-1 underdog, provided such unexpectedly stiff competition in the nationally-televised 10-rounder that many of the 4,500 fans thought he had won.

Cico of Stamford, Conn., said today, "I thought I won unquestionably. I out-speeded him in every round. Ill prove it in a return bout."

Two State Gridders Set for Clemson

CLEMSON, S.C. (UP)—Athletic director Frank Howard of Clemson College announced Wednesday that Bob Depolo, a 195-pound halfback from Windber, Somerset County, Pa., and Ran Andreo, a 195-pound center from Leechburg, Armstrong County, Pa., have accepted athletic scholarships.

The locals advanced to the second round with a 4-3 win over Glassport here Monday evening.

Brownsville's stars posted an 8-3 decision over McKeesport to climb in the playoffs.

Star

Star of the Brownsville nine is Bob Moore who batted and hurled Brownsville to the win over McKeesport. He fanned 15 batters, gave up only four hits.

In addition he lashed out a homer, double and single in four times at bat.

Can't Hurl

Under Little League rules he cannot pitch again tonight but his big bat will be in evidence.

Managers George Bonari and James Caputo of the locals have given no indication as to their hurling choice, preferring to keep it a secret until game time, which is 6:15 o'clock.

Fayette City Edges Charleroi Again, 4-3

Fayette City topped Charleroi 5-4 for the third time this season at Fayette City last night behind the five-hit hurling of Don Young who won his eighth game without a loss.

Charleroi took a 3-0 lead two runs on George Zuraw's first inning homer but couldn't hold it. Fayette City got two of the runs back in the third when Mike Panich singled home two markers and another in the fifth when Panich doubled with a runner on base.

Two errors, a wild pitch by Fred Uhlman and Manager Harry Muckle's sacrifice fly produced the winner run in the sixth.

The victory gave Charleroi a commanding lead over second-place Charleroi.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Stance, Position

If the green slants away from you, so that the ball will break to your right, you will naturally be standing to the putt with your feet higher than the ball. To make up for this, you will have to stand a little closer to the ball to maintain the normal distance between the hands and the ball.

Also, on a right-breaking putt, you will be lining up on a point to the left of the hole to compensate for the break to the right that the ball will take. So you will want to position the ball a little further forward than would be the case on a straight and level putt. This will give you a better view of the intended line.

These adjustments are small ones but they're important! Unless you change the stance and ball positioning slightly, you will have to change your stroke slightly. And changing your stroke isn't worth it.

State Amateur Golf Meet Opens

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The 44th annual Pennsylvania Amateur Golf Tournament begins today at nearby Oakmont Country Club.

Defending champion John Dyniewski of White Marsh Valley Country Club, Philadelphia, will meet Steve Rodnok Jr., of Acoma Country Club, Pittsburgh, in the first match.

A total of 64 players, including four former state champions, were entered.

The four former champions were A. J. (Pete) Jordon of Chartiers Country Club, Pittsburgh, 1953; Howard Everitt, Nothfield, N.J., 1946; Fred Paine, Oakmont, 1955, and Johnny Guenther Jr., Reading, 1952.

The third round and quarter-finals will be played Friday and the semi-finals and finals on Saturday.

GREENWICH, Conn. (UP) — Willie Turnesa, former U.S. and British Amateur champion, won the Ike Golf Tournament Wednesday with a record 72-hole score of 280. Pete Arend finished second with a 288 and Paul Kelly was third with a 294 in the three-day tournament sponsored by the New York Daily News.

Ex-Bucs Help Beat Pirates

Littlefield, Long Star In 4-3 Win

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Two ex-Pirates, Dale Long and Dick Littlefield, plus Ernie Banks proved to be the combination to give the Chicago Cubs a 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh Wednesday night at Forbes Field.

The defeat was charged to Ron Kline, his 13th of the season.

F Long

Going into the seventh inning with the score 3-2 in favor of the Pirates, Long hit a pinch single. Bob Will singled and Bob Speake doubled, scoring one run. Then Ernie Banks executed a perfect squeeze play, with two outs, to score Speake from third with the winning run.

Littlefield protected the lead in three scoreless innings to hold the victory for Moe Drabowsky.

Banks drove in the first run of the game in the first inning when he tripled to deep center to score Speake. Banks resumed his heroic role in the third frame when he reached first on an error by Gene Baker and went to third on Walt Moryn's single. Chuck Tanner hit into a double play and Banks scored to tie the game at 2-2.

Two Buc Runs

The Pirates scored twice in the second inning. Bill Virdon and Frank Thomas hit singles and Bill Mazeroski followed with a bunt to fill the bases with none out. Baker bounced out, but Virdon scored and then Thomas came across on Peterson's sacrifice.

The Pirates added their third run in the fourth when Mazeroski doubled and scored on Peterson's single.

The Pirates meet Chicago in an afternoon game today with Dick Drott (8-8) on the mound for the Cubs and Bob Purkey (9-7) for the Pirates.

CIO Softballers Top Charleroi, 4-3

Despite giving up eight hits to only six for the locals, Tom Standard held control of the game all the way as he hurled the Monessen CIO softballers to a 2-0 win over Charleroi in Tri-County League action last night at Charleroi.

Fanning four and not walking a batter, Standard pitched the locals to their 16th win in 21 starts.

Terrific defensive play by the pilot, Jim Cramer's CIOers, especially on the part of third-sacker Art Bandini, highlighted the game.

Bill Gill clubbed a triple for Monessen for the only extra base blow of the game.

Next start for the locals sees them visiting Donora tomorrow night.

One other game last night saw Fairhope Rod and Gun top Donora, 6-3.

KC 'Prexy' Denies Ties With Yankees

WASHINTON (UP)—The president of the Kansas City Athletics declared today there are absolutely no ties between his A's and the New York Yankees.

Arnold Johnson, boss of the Athletics, made the statement to a reporter before testifying at a House anti-trust subcommittee hearing on sports legislation.

The subcommittee planned to ask Johnson if he severed all connections with the Yankees when he got control of the Athletics in 1954 and moved them from Philadelphia to Kansas City.

Johnson said he disposed of all his stock in the corporation which owns Yankee Stadium a few months after he took over the Athletics

Mattl M. Fox, president of Skiatron -V, Inc., also was slated to testify today about his plans to inaugurate pay-as-you-see TV for major league baseball.

Fox's firm, Skiatron, has been negotiating with both the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers for rights to carry their home games over closed-circuit TV.

Giants' President Horace Stoneham told the subcommittee Wednesday he had reached an agreement with Skiatron subject to approval by his board of directors and the National League.

Stoneham said closed-circuit TV would begin next season for the Giants if they move to San Francisco as they contemplate, or when their present broadcasting agreement runs out if they stay in New York.

He said he hasn't come to any agreement to shift to San Francisco but confessed he was "very interested" in the offer he received from officials of that city. He said he expects to get more details in August or early September.

Snead Setting Pace in PGA Golf Tourney

By LEO H. PETERSEN

DAYTON, Ohio (UP) — Sammy Snead, shooting one of his finest rounds, led 64 survivors into two sudden-death 18-hole rounds in the PGA golf championship today with all the top favorites still in the running.

Doug Ford, the favorite; Walter Burkemo, one of the greatest match players in the game; defending champion Jackie Burke, U.S. Open king Dick Mayer and most of the other "name" golfers still were in the running along with Snead, who is gunning for his fourth PGA championship.

Three ex-champs fell by the wayside in the opening 18-hole round of match play Wednesday. Former champions Chick Harbert, Chandler Harper and Jim Turnesa were eliminated along with Ed Furgol, the 1954 U.S. Open champion.

Snead Calls Penalty

Snead despite calling a penalty on himself which cost him the 11th hole, defeated John Serafin of Pittston, Pa., 4 and 2, as he overpowered the hilly 6,773-yard Miami Valley Golf Club. He was six under par for the 16 holes it took him to close out the match.

That was the best golf of a day which produced 10 extra hole matches of the 64 that were played. In another brilliant exhibition, Gene Littler, who is in the tournament on a pass, bested Don Fairfield in a battle of birdies.

Littler shot a 4-under-par 67 as he turned back Fairfield, 1-up.

Dow Finsterwald, another of the heralded youngsters who is playing in the event for the first time, made the second round when his opponent, Theodore Sleichter, the 39-year-old pro at the Gettysburg Country Club at Gettysburg, Pa., where President Eisenhower plays his golf when at his farm home there, called a penalty shot on himself on the 17th hole.

Souchak Also Advances

Burkemo had a rough time before he bested Toby Lyons of Jamestown, N.Y., 1-up. Ford beat Denny Champagne of Orlando, Fla., 4 and 3; Burke beat host pro Gene Marchi, 4 and 2, and Mayer defeated Arthur Stuhler of Pittsfield, Mass., 6 and 5.

Mike Souchak, another of the younger pros who is rated high for this tournament, advanced with a 5 and 3 triumph over Charley Johnson of Hinsdale, Ill.

Jim Browning of Weston, Mass., eliminated Furgol 2 and 1; Skee Riegel eliminated Harbert in 19 holes; Turnesa was knocked out by Bill Nary of Wayne, Mich., 2 and 1, and Harper was beaten by Mike Krak of Morgantown, W.Va., 3 and 2.

Cardinals Sneak into NL Lead by Percentage Point

By MILTON RICHMAN

The National League race resembled a crowded telephone booth today with four other clubs waiting around impatiently to put in a pennant call as soon as they can get the first-place Cardinals off the line.

St. Louis just managed to sneak into the lead by one percentage point with a 7-3 victory over Brooklyn Wednesday night.

But the Cards know they are being pressed and that their dime may run out any moment. Milwaukee is first in line, only one percentage point away from the lead. Philadelphia is in third place, only a half-game back, while Brooklyn is 1½ games off the pace and Cincinnati only two.

"This thing is so tight right now," commented Redleg manager Birdie Tebbetts, "that three clubs can change places between lunchtime and dinner."

To prove Tebbetts' point, the Braves dumped the Phillies from first place to third by beating them, 10-3, Wednesday night. Cincinnati edged the Giants, 5-4, and the Cubs defeated the Pirates, 4-3, in their own private battle for seventh place.

Yanks Hold Edge

The Yankees retained their four-game lead in the American League with a 5-1 decision over Detroit. Washington snapped Cleveland's five-game winning streak, 11-6; Chicago beat Baltimore, 3-1 and Kansas City went 12 innings to top Boston, 4-3.

In beating Brooklyn, the Cardinals ended Don Newcombe's six-year mastery over them by defeating him for the first time since Aug. 23, 1951. He had beaten them 12 times since then. They chased him with a four-run rally in the fourth inning that included a two-run homer by Wally Moon. Del Ennis also homered for the Cards as Sam Jones struck out 12 batters in registering his eighth victory.

Milwaukee's victory over the Phillies was marked by a first-inning rhubarb in which Philadelphia starter Robin Roberts had to be restrained from attacking umpire Jocko Conlan. The fireworks started over a double play call that went against the Phils. Hank Aaron and Red Schoendienst each collected three hits in Milwaukee's 13-hit attack. Roberts was ejected in the first inning and his successor, Jack Meyer, was the loser. Lew Burdette was the winner.

George Crowe hit a pair of homers and drove in four runs in Cincinnati's triumph over the Giants. Brooks Lawrence notched his 10th victory although he gave way to Raul Sanchez in the eighth. Curt Barclay was the loser.

Ernie Banks' squeeze bunt with two out in the seventh inning brought in Bob Speake with the Cubs' winning run. Moe Drabowsky had to have help from Dick Littlefield for his fifth win while Ronnie Kline suffered his 13th setback.

Coleman, Berra Homer

Bob Turley limited the Tigers to six hits and Jerry Coleman and Yogi Berra each homered off Jim Bunning for the Yankees' victory. Coleman's homer was his first in three years while Berra's was his 15th of the season.

Left-hander Chuck Stobbs of the Senators helped his own cause by driving in two runs with a pair of hits in gaining his third victory of the season at Cleveland's expense. Roy Sievers hit his 21st homer with one on for Washington while George Strickland and Dick Williams homered for the Indians. Don Mossi, knocked out in the fourth, was the loser.

The White Sox nicked southpaw Bill Wight for six hits and seven walks in beating Baltimore. Bob Keegan recorded his fifth straight victory and sixth of the season although rookie Bill Fischer had to get the last two outs in the ninth.

Tim Thompson's 12th-inning single off Bob Chakales scored Bob Cerv with the winning run for Kansas City. Cerv had tied the game at 2-2 with an eighth inning homer off starter Frank Sullivan. Ralph Terry pitched the first 11 innings for the A's but Tom Morgan wound up with the victory.

Tebbetts Warned About Making Racial Remarks

NEW YORK (UP)—Birdie Tebbetts' accusations were stricken from the official record today but, like a good attorney, he made his point and the chances are National League pitchers won't throw at Frank Robinson of Cincinnati so often in the future.

Tebbetts admitted he made a mistake Wednesday and recanted his charge that pitchers have been throwing at Robinson because he is a Negro.

The Cincinnati pilot made the accusation originally after Robinson was hit on the head by a Ruben Gomez pitch in a game with the New York Giants Tuesday night.

National League President Warren Giles called Tebbetts to task for his remarks and the Redlegs' pilot agreed they were "unwarranted."

"I don't believe Gomez' action was discriminatory in any sense," Tebbetts said. "I realize I was being unfair when I said it."

Still, Tebbetts got his message across, perhaps it was significant that not a single pitch came close to Robinson in Wednesday's game with the Giants which the Redlegs won, 5-4.

Robinson said he suffered no after-effects from being hit but he insisted four clubs — the Giants, Dodgers, Cubs and Pirates — are "always throwing at me."

Prior to Tuesday night, Robinson had been hit on the head twice this season, once in a game with the Pirates and again in a game with the Cubs.

Top Seeded Stars Not Pressed Yet

RIVER FOREST, Ill. (UP) — Top-seeded tennis stars haven't been pressed too hard yet in the National Clay Courts Tournament, but competition was becoming keener after the elimination of unranked and unknown players.

Herb Flam and Althea Gibson still were favored to win the men's and women's singles titles, respectively, and were ready to meet the challenge of other seeded stars.

Flam, seeded No. 1 and defending champ from Beverly Hills, Calif., displayed championship form Wednesday in disposing of Robert Werksman, Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-3, in a third round match.

Meanwhile, Miss Gibson — 1957 Wimbledon women's titlist—overpowered unknown Sally Bockwinkel, River Forest, 6-0, 6-2, in a second-round contest.

Main Signs 5th Pact

DETROIT (UP)—Gil Mains, defensive end and a veteran of five years in the National Football League, has signed his 1957 contract with the Detroit Lions. Mains played collegiate ball at Murray State Teachers College in Kentucky.

Sporstmen's Corner—

Game Commission Sets '57 Seasons, Limits

The Game Commission held its regular July meeting recently in Harrisburg and established the game and fur seasons and bag limits for the 1957 hunting license year. The year begins September 1, 1957, and ends August 31, 1958.

The Commission was as liberal as possible in the matter of season lengths and the taking of game and fur, while being mindful of its responsibility in respect to managing the state's wildlife resources.

The season for hunting squirrels (gray, black and fox), ruffed grouse and wild turkeys will be for five weeks, as in 1956. The hunting season on these species will open October 19 and close November 23.

The season for hunting cottontails, ring-necked pheasants (male pheasants only), and bob-whites will be for 5 weeks. This is a one-week increase for these species over the season of 1956. The season on these species will begin October 26 and end November 30. The daily and season bag limits for all the species described herein will be the same as in 1956.

In most areas squirrels are very common, and field studies indicate that wild turkeys and grouse are present in good numbers. Cottontails, pheasants, and bobwhites are also showing up very good.

The bow and arrow deer season will open October 5 and end October 12. This year, for the first time, the archers will be allowed to take one deer of either sex, regardless of size, in the special bow and arrow season. No special antlerless license for taking a female deer in the special archery season will be required. All bow hunters will still be required to purchase a "regular" hunting license and an archery license before going afield for a deer in that season. An archer may legally kill only one deer in the combined 1957 seasons.

A new Act, passed by the 1957 General Assembly, stipulates that special archery licenses may this year be obtained from all county treasurers and the Department of Revenue, and from these sources only.

Odd Companions—

While checking duck nesting boxes in York County this spring Game Protectors Earl Geesaman and Stephen Mace discovered strange nesting companions. As Geesaman tells it:

"We found a screech owl with 4 young and a starling with several eggs using the same box. The nests were in opposite corners. A check ten days later showed one young owl in the starling nest, no doubt hoping for an extra meal.

"The mother owl is the most timid wild bird I have ever handled. When removed from the nest she cowered in fright and made no attempt to use her talons or beak. The young owls were of opposite nature. At three weeks of age they were ready to fight, any time."

Nonchalent Bear—

John Lohmann, long-time Game Protector in Pike County, is looking forward to live-trapping a bear that has become too familiar with the property of a man named Werner.

Lohmann says, "In each of the last four years the man has lost a hive of bees to a bear that lives in a swamp nearby. This spring the big, black fellow came right onto the porch and cleaned up five hives placed there to avoid further pilferage.

"The bear merely shuffles off when Mr. Werner chases him. In about one-half hour he again shows up, always in broad daylight. Mr. Werner likes company, and he likes wildlife, but he would rather this bear take up his abode somewhere else."

The latest Index compared with $6.27 a week ago and $6.01 a year ago.

Ike Backers in House Fight for Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UP) — Administration forces in the House fought today for restoration of 200 million dollars newly-slashed from President Eisenhower's foreign aid bill.

The President Wednesday night issued a special appeal for restoration of the money. He called the cut a "threat to our nation's security and the free world."

The House Foreign Affairs Committee already had cut the foreign aid bill from $3,864,410,000 to $3,242,333,000 before the House tentatively cut the extra 200 million Wednesday from defense support funds. The House scheduled a roll call on the new cut this afternoon.

The program also faced new money-cutting attacks before being brought to a final vote.

Rep. A. S. J. Carnahan (D-Mo.), the bill's floor manager, said he feared further cuts would be made.

"We hope they won't be too deep," he said.

Other congressional news:

Cigarettes: A House government operations subcommittee called cancer and tobacco experts for the opening of an investigation of filter cigarettes. Earlier, Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D - Ore.) introduced a bill that would end price supports and soil bank payments for tobacco growers.

Rackets: The Senate Rackets Committee summoned the president and secretary - treasurer of the AFL United Textile Workers of America to answer charges they bought their homes with union funds. The committee announced AFL - CIO President George Meany will testify Monday in the investigation.

Pay Raise: The House Post Office and Civil Service Committee appeared ready to approve a pay raise for 950,000 federal workers despite administration objections. Backers of a pay raise expect the committee to approve increases averaging 10 to 12 per cent for white collar clerical and administrative workers. That would cost about 700 million dollars a year.

Stockpiles: A special House consumer study subcommittee urged the President to plan immediately for emergency food stockpiles that would be needed in case of nuclear attack. A subcommittee report said the government is "utterly without plan" to feed civilian survivors of an attack against the United States and allied nations.

The term restaurant was first used for an establishment opened in Paris in 1765.

Character Witnesses Take Stand Today Turnpike Conspiracy

HARRISBURG (UP) — Defense attorneys in the Pennsylvania Turnpike conspiracy trial were prepared today to present a long line of character witnesses to testify on behalf of the nine defendants.

Chief counsel Earl V. Compton said the defense will go into the final phase of its case at the conclusion of the prosecution's cross-examination of the fifth defendant to take the stand, E. J. Donnelly, a former turnpike consulting engineer.

Donnelly, testifying on his own behalf Wednesday, like the four defendants who testified before him categorically denied any knowledge or implication with an alleged multi-million dollar swindle of turnpike funds through a mine-filling project in the construction of the Northeastern Extension.

Donnelly was part of the turnpike engineering staff which recommended the mine-filling work, said the program "was based on sound engineering principles and judgment" and denied Commonwealth charges the work was "almost wholly unnecessary."

No Part in Contract

Donnelly said he had no part in the negotiation of the turnpike's contract with the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading, for the completion of the work.

The state charges the contract was obtained by Manu-Mine president Charles W. Stickler Jr. and former vice president Clayton A. Landside through fraud, and that the firm made a 100 per cent profit on the job, despite representations their profit would be 10 per cent.

Also charged with conspiracy in connection with the contract are Stickler's uncle, former Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans; suspended commissioner James F. Torrance; former commission finance director Paul J. McNeill; former legal counsel Theodore S. Paul; and former engineer John S. Paul (no relation).

In addition Evans and Torrance are being tried for misconduct in office for their part in the negotiation of the contract.

Pittsburgh Steel 'Demurrage' Rate Boosted by RR

A 33 per cent increase in railroad "demurrage" went into effect at Pittsburgh Steel this month, according to the latest issue of Keystone, the company's official publication.

Effective July 1 railroads upped demurrage rates from $3 to $4 per day on certain cars and from $6 to $8 per day on others.

However Pittsburgh Steel has 48 hours to unload railroad cars before the penalty is assessed.

"A forgotten railroad car means wasted money . . . money that the company can use for any number of better purposes," commented Earl R. Dunkerly, vice president, Monessen Southwestern Railway, which serves the Pittsburgh Steel plant here.

Babies in Arms Are Saved, but Mothers Killed

By UNITED PRESS

Two babies being held in arms by their mothers survived by seeming miracles when death struck the women, one from a lightning bolt in Florida and the other from an automobile in Mississippi.

One child was thrown unhurt upon the top of a car that fatally injured his mother Wednesday at New Albany, Miss., and the other child was left unscathed when lightning instantly killed is mother.

Mrs. G. C. Wilhite, 23, of New Albany, was carrying her 6-month-old boy in her arms along a country road when she was struck by the car. She died in a hospital four ours later.

Mrs. Harvey King, 25, of Dade City, Fla., picked up her son Ronald, and walked in to her yard to inspect an oak tree that had just been struck by lightning two days ago. A second bolt struck the tree, killing Mrs. King.

The child fell to the ground beside the mother's body, without receiving te sligtest injury from the bolt.

No Break in Sight in the Cement Strike

CHICAGO (UP)—No break was in sight today in a countrywide strike of cement industry workers that has curtailed building and road construction and several military projects.

The walkout by 16,000 members of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union has reduced the nation's cement output by about 75 per cent and affected some 14,000 other workers in allied industries.

The strike, now in its third month at some plants, was called to back union demands for a 13½-cent hourly wage increase and other fringe benefits. Hardest hit have been the East and the South.

Hopes had been high for early settlement of the walkout when the union signed a so-called "pattern agreement" July 1 with the Marquette Cement Co. of Chicago.

The contract called for the 13½-cent wage boost plus other benefits adding up to a 17-cent package. Workers at the Marquette plant had been averaging $2.10 hourly before the settlement.

However, there have been only a few other scattered settlements since and union spokesmen have charged management representatives with "dragging their feet."

After leading guards to Mouton, one of the hounds collapsed and died of heat exhaustion.

Plan More Crusades

NEW YORK (UP) — Evangelist Billy Graham said today he hopes to conduct crusades for Christ in Sydney, Australia and Birmingham, England, in 1959.

Graham revealed tentative plans for the new crusades as he prepared for the biggest revival meeting of his career, to be held in the 67,000-seat Yankee Stadium Saturday. Vice President Richard M. Nixon confirmed in Washington late Wednesday an earlier United Press report he would come to New York to take part in the stadium rally.

He said he would "give much prayer" to tentative plans to hold the Australian crusade in March, April and May of 1959. The crusade would have offshoots from Sydney into Melbourne and three other major cities, as well as Auckland, New Zealand.

The projected Birmingham crusade, which would cover the entire "Midlands", section of Great Britain, is tentatively planned for September, 1959.

The evangelist preached a sermon on the Apostle Paul (Acts 18:17) before an audience of 19,200—including 700 standees — in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night. He addressed an additional 3,000 persons who could not be admitted into the huge sports arena in the street outside.

More than 1,074,000 persons have heard Graham's Garden sermons. A first count of 724 persons who recorded "decisions for Christ" Wednesday night brought the total since the New York Crusade began May 15 to 33,846.

Expansion Program on Schedule

Pittsburgh Steel's multi-million dollar expansion program is moving along as scheduled on three major fronts, according to the company's official publication, Keystone Magazine.

The current issue reports that improvement projects are — or will be — underway at No. 2 Blast Furnace, the 10th open hearth and the 18 and 28 inch mills of the Monessen plant.

Work was due to begin today on the Blast Furnace which will be relined and equipped with a new top and rotary technological advances designed to produce higher quality iron.

The 10th open hearth has been enlarged and rebuilt. Enlargement of 12 open hearths are expected to be completed by the fourth quarter in anticipation for the increased demand in steel.

The 18 and 28 inch mills are slated for shutdown in the middle of August and will be out of production for approximately three weeks, according to company engineers.

The current improvements are part of Pittsburgh Steel's 21 million expansion program. The company is aiming at a 1,560,000 ton capacity instead of the present 1,320,000 ton capacity.

Company engineers have arranged the improvement projects in such a fashion as to keep downtime to a minimum.

Turnpike to Take Bids for Projects

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission will receive bids Aug. 2 for two projects along the superhighway.

One includes erection of medial barrier guard rail in Westmoreland, Somerset and Bedford counties for 43.85 miles between the Donegal and Bedford interchanges.

The other calls for resurfacing of .39 of a miles in Little Beaver Twp., Lawrence County, near the intersection of the turnpike and Legislative Route 37006.

Southwestern Drought Ends with Flourish; Rain Above Normal

DALLAS (UP) — The end of one of the longest and most costly droughts in history is written in green across the landscape of the Southwest this summer.

The prevailing colors for the past seven years have been the yellow of dying crops and the brown of parched grass. This year many parts of the Southwest have had too much rain.

The drought was almost as expensive as war. Texas Commissioner of Agriculture John White estimates it cost his state two billion dollars.

Rain Far Above Normal

Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas and Missouri suffered almost as much. Only eastern New Mexico has note njoyed the rains — two or three times the normal fall.

Now bears no longer terrorize the towns of New Mexico by invading them for food. There is food and water in the mountains again.

The diary in Dallas that made a fortune last summer by selling water in cartons at 40 cents a gal-In fact, water rationing has allon now sells only milk.

There is a five year supply of water in the lakes north of Dallas. most vanished in the Southwest

But Texas temperatures still range over 100 degrees and there has been no rain in the interior of the state for a month. This is normal for a Texas summer but seems out of character after two and one-half months of cloudbursts and floods.

"More rain is a vital necessity, particularly in the western portion of the state," Commissioner White says.

White agrees with H. L. Jacobson, chief meterologist of the weather forecasting center at Kansas City, that the southwestern drought is broken. But no one knows whether it will stay broken.

'Cripple' Champ Bike Peddler

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)— Nineteen years of pedaling a giant tricycle back and forth across America have reclaimed what doctors once called "a hopeless cripple."

Wilfred F. Wright, 57, a bachelor from St. Petersburg, Fla., rolled into Seattle earlier this week after pedaling some 3,918 miles from his southern home. He left Florida May 3 and is enroute to Alaska.

Wright began pedaling the mammoth three-wheeler in 1939, a year after doctors in a veterans hospital had pronounced him a hopeless cripple. It began as just a health exercise, but in the 19 years since, he says he has made five trans - continental journeys aboard his velocipede.

Nursery Course at Penn State

A new program to train persons for the ornamental nursery industry has been announced by Pennsylvania State University.

Individuals enrolled are trained in the propagation, field production, use and maintenance of trees shrubs, and perennial and annual flowers. The management of greenhouses and other forcing structures as they pertain to the field is a part of the course.

University staff members provide the instruction; the university greenhouses, nursery, and campus are the laboratory and workshop for the students.

The course consists of two eight week periods a year for two years. A six month summer placement for on-the-job training is recommended.

Persons 16 years of age or older are eligible to enroll in the course. Graduation from high school is not a requirement; non-graduates will be accepted on the basis of their maturity, experiences, and objectives. The usual mathematics, science, and English college entrance requirements are not pertinent to this winter course.

More information can be received by contacting County Agent Joseph S. Thurston or the Director of Short Courses, College of Agriculture, The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pennsylvania.

Dulles Meets Newsmen On Red China Policy

WASHINGTON (UP)—A compromise plan for limited American news coverage of Communist China was up for discussion this afternoon in a meeting of news media representatives and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

The meeting may produce a long-awaited breakthrough in the "Bamboo Curtain," which was first created by the Chinese Communists and later maintained by a State Department ban on all American travel to the Chinese mainland.

Dulles was said to be ready to agree to a compromise that would permit stationing in Communist China of one reporter for each of about a dozen American news-gathering agencies, newspapers, radio-TV networks and magazines which had correspondents in China in 1949.

Nearly eight years ago, the new Chinese Communist regime in effect evicted American newsmen by ordering them to stop filing dispatches. The State Department promptly denounced the ban as the act of a dictatorship fearful of "objective reporting."

"The (Chinese) order is not based on military security or censorship but solely on the ground of non-recognition of the recently announced Communist regime," the State Department said on Oct. 7, 1949. "It is evident that this order constitutes a crude effort on the part of the Chinese Communists to force recognition of their newly established regime."

When Red China offered last August to open its borders to American newsmen, the State Department reversed its position.

Dulles argued that to let Americans—newsmen or any other citizens — enter Communist China would weaken the U.S. policy of no contact with the Peiping regime, enhance its prestige, expose the State Department to demands of other Americans for passports to visit China, and play into the Communists' hands.

U.S. citizens could not be assured protection in a country that is still holding some American prisoners on false espionage charges, Dulles said.

At a Feb. 5 news conference he said the Communists' invitation to newsmen was part of a "blackmail" condition for the release of American prisoners. He implied that no American newsman would be allowed to go to China until all prisoners held there were freed.

On April 23 he dropped the "blackmail" position and suggested that a "strictly limited number of responsible" correspondents might be allowed to go. State Department officials talked of a possible pooling arrangement by department-approved newsmen.

William Dwight, President of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, replied that "in the thinking of American newspapermen there is no such thing as limiting the right to know."

On May 14, Dulles said the government would raise no obstacle to the employment of non-Americans to cover Communist China for U.S. news media.

In response to continued criticism that his position violated American freedoms, Dulles again offered to consider some formula for allowing a small number of newsmen to go to China.

Basic Aspic Salad Is Cool Summer Treat

In meal planning, contrasts in texture among various foods are fully as important as differences in flavor. A good example of this is the use of diced celery with meat and fish salads. Even a chicken or lobster salad is better for the addition of celery.

The combination of gelatine with fruit juice or tomato juice is as much liked for the texture that results as for the flavor of the juices. A jellied fruit salad, is more satisfying to the appetite than it otherwise would be. This is also the case when one combines vegetables and meat or fish with gelatine.

Two favorite summer salads are called aspic. One of the easiest ones to prepare uses condensed tomato soup. Make this in a ring and fill it with a vegetable salad. A good filling is sliced cucumbers dressed with sour cream. The second popular jellied ring has a cheese custard as its base, and is satisfying for either lunch or supper.

One can fill a cheese ring with a mixed vegetable salad to which any diced leftover cooked meat may be added. A French dressing is usually chosen for the salad mixture when it is to be served with a cheese flavored ring.

BASIC ASPIC SALAD

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
1 cup boiling water
1 cup cold water
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 cup diced celery
1 cup cooked diced vegetables, meat or fish.

Dissolve gelatine in boiling water. Add cold water and chill. When it begins to thicken, add remaining ingredients. Chill until firm. Serve garnished with lettuce. Yield: 6 servings.

JELLIED CHEESE RING SALAD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold water
3 cups milk
3 egg yolks
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon paprika
1½ cups grated cheese

Soften gelatine in cold water. Heat milk in top of double boiler. Beat egg yolks with the salt, mustard, paprika and stir in a little of the hot milk. Add this mixture to the rest of the milk and stir over hot water until it begins to thicken (when it stops foaming). Stir in cheese and when melted, remove from heat and add softened gelatine. Stir until dissolved. Pour into 1-quart ring mold or in small molds and chill until set. Turn out on platter and garnish with strips of pimiento. Fill center with any mixed vegetable salad. Yield: 6 servings.

BROILED HAMBURG STEAK

1½ pounds chopped beef
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
6 bacon strips

Mix meat with salt and pepper. Form into 6 small cakes and wrap each in strip of bacon. Secure with toothpicks and boil 4 to 5 minutes on each side.

Nearly 2,000 species of shrimp exist. The young pass through 10 larval stages. Most adults apparently spawn only once and have a life span of one year.

YOUR FOOD PROBLEM

By Edith M. Barber

OPEN-FACED HAMBURGERS flavored with nutmeg and topped with radish slices are a mouth-watering novelty.

Swedish Bunburgers Are Tasty Change for Outdoors

"Let's have hamburgers." Nine times out of ten, when young people are asked what they'd like to have for supper this is what we'll hear. Fortunately, the older members of the family are quite willing to eat these, at least occasionally.

Edith Barber

The latter may be a little fussier about what they are served. As you have probably learned by experience, not all hamburgers suit their tastes. Some like thick patties, and some like thin. Some feel when meat is of good quality, it needs little seasoning and may like to add this during the broiling. Others like to have the meat well seasoned before it is made into patties.

Many cooks like to use a few break or cracker crumbs with the meat and when these are used, to add a small amount of evaporated milk. This practice makes it easier to mold the patties. One man who prides himself on the hamburgers that he broils on an outdoor grill molds them ahead of time, places them on waxed paper and allows them to chill in the refrigerator before broiling.

If he uses charcoal instead of wood for the fire, he brushes the patties with hickory flavored liquid smoke. This is also a good practice if the patties are to be cooked indoors on the broiler or in a skillet. By the way, it is not a bad idea when the patties are thin and are to be broiled under a flame to arrange each meat patty on a split bun before cooking.

SWEDISH BUNBURGERS

2-3 cup (small can) evaporated milk
1 egg
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ pounds ground beef
½ cup fine cracker crumbs
½ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon cloves
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
¼ cup finely chopped parsley
¼ cup finely chopped celery
6 hamburger buns, split in half

Blend together all ingredients except buns until well mixed. Form mixture into 12 thin patties (about 1-3 cup each). Place each patty on hamburger bun half, covering completely. Place bunburgers on broiler pan and broil 5 to 7 minutes (or to taste).

Diet Aids Complexion

"Skin troubles were once much more common than they are nowadays. Young girls and boys were often plagued with pimples and cold sores. There is much less of this at adolescence than was once the case.

Often it seemed skin disturbances were found among the young prople who had previously had the best complexions. This was natural, as the outer layer of the skin was generally thin. The thicker the skin, the less likely it is to be affected by heat or by infections or abrasions.

It has been found that a good diet through childhood and the continuance of this through the adolescent period is the most important preventive factor. No specific vitamin will be a remedy. An unusually large consumption of sugars and fats may have been partly responsible for disorders. In cases of obesity, there may be a friction between skin surfaces and this may produce rashes.

Specific foods are to be blamed only when there is an allergy to them. In this case, they must be eliminated entirely for a time and given in very small amounts later. It is important that the daily diet be adequate in every respect. Sometimes, the quantity of food, but never the quality, should be cut down.

MUSTARD SAUCE

1 cup sour (salad) cream
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons minced chives or scallions.

Mix ingredients thoroughly. Serve cold with cold meat, or heated carefully over hot water with hot baked ham or roast beef.

Young Daughter Of GOP Worker Leaps to Death

NEW YORK (UP)—The 24-year-old daughter of a Milwaukee industrialist and former Republican national committeeman plunged to her death Wednesday from a 28th floor penthouse apartment of a Park Ave. hotel.

She was identified by police as Patricia Philipp, the daughter of Cyrus L. Philipp and granddaughter of former Wisconsin Gov. Emanuel Philipp.

In her pocketbook, police found an unaddressed note reading:

"Dear Hon. This is the only way out. You are not to blame."

Police were unable to determine to whom the note was addressed, or the reason for the leap. Coworkers at the Allied Public Relations Associations, where Miss Philipp had been a secretary the last two months, could offer no reason for the apparent suicide. They described the gray-eyed brunette woman as an apparently happy person, popular with associates.

Wins Battle With Termites And Railroad

MUSKEGON, Mich. (UP)—Dallas Varney has won his battle with termites and the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad.

The hassle began when termites infesting rotting railroad ties on an abandoned siding threatened to invade Varney's new home.

Varney tried to find the owner of the tracks but couldn't and finally ripped out the 165 feet of rails. Then the C&O handed him a bill for $72.

When he failed to pay he was arrested for grand larceny.

Circuit Judge Henry L. Beers directed a jury to return a verdict of innocent after Varney's attorneys contended the track had not been used since 1929 and a house currently stands in its path.

The termites?

"I haven't been bothered with them since I got rid of the old railroad bed," Varney said.

The projects include, 72,000 square yards of U.S. Routes 22 and 30 in Pittsburgh; 77,000 square yards of Traffic Route 28 between Oakmont and New Kensington; 78,000 square yards on Traffic Route 51 near Coraopolis and the Greater Pittsburgh Airport; 110,000 square yards on U.S. Route 22 between Wilkinsburg and Murrysville and 23,000 square yards on Traffic Route 68 in Beaver County between Beaver and the Ohio state line.

Jazz Is Subject of Learned Discussion

By ALFRED LEECH

CHICAGO (UP) — A studious little group at the YMCA is dissecting jazz.

The course taught by Don Young public relations man for a meat packing company, probably is the first of its kind.

It features guest appearances by noted jazzmen and field trips to jazz emporiums like the Blue Note and Jazz Limited.

What sort of people attend an adult education class in jazz? Mostly smartly dressed young women in their 20's or early 30's, and a few young men with perfectly normal haircuts.

There's one very chic grandmother in the bunch, Mrs. Marian Zimmerman, who gave her age as 21 plus. She said she was there to "have fun and learn something."

The classroom has no blackboard, but it has a fancy record player and an upright piano.

Guest Jazz Pianist

The guest artist was jazz pianist Oscar Peterson, a thoughtful, pipe smoking man who uses words like "polytonal."

On the piano keyboard, Peterson traced the evolution of jazz piano from Jelly Roll Morton, Fats Waller and Art Tatum to the present "modernists."

The oldtimers used a "stride" left hand, Peterson explained, from which boogie woogie and countless variations evolved. The modernists, he complained, don't use much left hand at all.

"The piano is a two - handed instrument," Peterson said.

A blonde young woman wanted to know where jazz is going.

"It's going back," Peterson asserted. "Progressive music has gone too far. For a while, they were even applying mathematical formuale to it. And if it's mathematics, it isn't music.

"Jazz is a swinging thing. It must have a foot-tapping feeling".

Broker Shares Podium

Bill Spanier, a white-haired stockbroker in a conservative blue suit shared the podium with Peterson. Spanier is the brother of Muggsy, the jazz cornetist.

Spanier agreed with Peterson about progressive jazz, which he calls "funny music."

"The guys who play it wear goatees and berets in the hope somebody will look at them even if nobody will listen to what they play," Spanier said.

But he couldn't go along with Peterson that a jazz musician must have theoretical knowledge and be able to read music.

"Up until five years ago my brother couldn't read a note," he said. "And neither could most of the jazz greats who brought the music up from New Orleans."

Spanier opined that you can get too analytical. He recalled that somebody once asked Louis Armstrong for a definition of jazz.

"Man, if you have to ask you'll never know," Satchmo replied.

Ethel Mertz Likes New 'Love Lucy' TV Format

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) —Now that Ethel Mertz is living next door to the Ricardos only once every two months, she's branching out to everything from dramatic roles to a dude ranch.

Aline Mosby

Ethel and husband Fred, known on their heavy income tax forms as Vivian Vance and Bill Frawley, won a breather this TV season when "I Love Lucy" graduated from a weekly stint to five one-hour extravaganzas.

Pert Vivian still will be Lucy's neighbor—but only because the top-rated program goes into its seventh year on an occasional basis.

"I had just about had it," confessed Vivian at her Pacific Palisades home. "I toyed with the thought of playing some other character. I know how Art Carney feels—since the Jackie Gleason show is off Art is happy as a clam working on dramatic shows.

Wanted New Scenery

"I wanted to break out and do something else. But, you know, you just can't quit. Oh, I got letters, all wanting to know if Bill and I would be on the new show.

"I would have quit if it had been a half-hour show again. But now it's wonderful, going to work for two weeks and having two and a half months off. It's opened up a whole new dream for me."

Vivian and her husband, actor-writer Phil Ober spend much of their time now on their 15-year-old four-acre "ranch" between Gallup and Albuquerque, N. Mex. They also cherish a plan to buy a large guest ranch and then live there, commuting to Hollywood for acting jobs.

"And this year I'll do some dramatic shows. I have time now," the blonde actress added.

Vivian is back in town as the Desilu Company is getting ready to film the second episode of the new "Lucille Ball-Desi Arnaz" show (the first bows on CBS-TV in November.

Format Virtually Same

The format of the new program is virtually the same as the half-hour version—the same characters in situation comedies. But each show now is a complete story and produced in more elegant style with expensive sets, guest stars and more music.

The first program, which Vivian calls "just like a short movie musical," concerns the meeting of Lucy and Ricki. Rudy Vallee, their alleged idol at the time, plays himself in the story.

"When we filmed the first show it was like a New York opening," said Miss Vance. "We shot on three stages—so our studio audience had to move three times. I'm sure this program will be as popular as the weekly series—and this way we all have a chance to slow down and breathe."

New Educational TV Series to Start Tomorrow

The diverse and colorful backgrounds of the transplanted millions who form the composite face of America today is the subject of a new weekly national educational television series "Our Nation's Roots."

This 26-week series will begin tomorrow at 10:30 p. m. over station WQED, Channel 13.

"Our forefathers came here from all the countries of the world," President Eisenhower said recently, "and from the variety of ancestries has grown up an unimagined national vigor. . . There is no story like it in history."

"Our Nation's Roots", will tell the story of these people and of the land they found — of the nation's tremendous resources and the manpower desperately needed to develop them; of the people who felled the trees to make way for canals and railroads, who dug the raw ore from the ground and processed it into steel; of the many who guided the ploughs and harrows of the vast agricultural lands.

Narrating the story will be two members of the New York University faculty: Ormond J. Drake, professor of speech and director of New York City's Town Hall, and Dr. Thomas P. Robinson of the history department, who is also assistant to the dean of the College of Arts and Science.

Painful Plantar Warts A Problem in Summer

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

With pleasant summer weather at hand, plantar warts become more of a problem than ever.

Like the more common ailment of athlete's foot, plantar warts frequently are contracted in public shower and locker rooms. As golfing, softball and other summer sports activities increase, so do foot troubles.

Plantar warts, apparently caused by a virus infection, occur most often on the ball of the foot.

The symptoms, of course, vary. Minor cases may give the feeling that there is a pebble in your shoe, while the more serious attacks make walking virtually impossible.

Not only are they the most painful type of wart; they usually are the most difficult to treat. They are often obscured by surrounding callosities and occasionally a biopsy is needed to detect them.

Don't try to treat these warts yourself. As a rule, you will need the help of a doctor if you want to get rid of them permanently.

Probably the easiest method of getting rid of plantar warts is by X-ray. However, X-ray therapy will cure only about 50 to 75 per cent of the cases.

If X-ray fails, your doctor will probably pare down the callus and wart, stopping before bleeding occurs, and then apply various acids and medications. He can do it in his office and you probably won't even miss a day's work.

Anywhere from three to seven treatments may be required before the wart is completely removed. During the treatment, you will have to avoid vigorous exercise and swimming.

Whatever treatment your doctor finally settles upon, do not think you can do as good a job by yourself. Many persons indiscriminately employ acids, frequent parings or a callus file in an effort to remove the offender.

Do not do it. Most likely you will only make things worse.

Many Arguments Are Centered Around St. Lawrence Seaway

(The fourth of five dispatches by a UP correspondent who has toured the route of the St Lawrence Seaway.)

By ROBERT E. JACKSON

ALONG THE GREAT LAKES (UP) — Controversy is a permanent passenger on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

What tolls to charge? Will Canada build its own parallel seaway" in the half-century before itself as planned? Will the channels have to be deepened again? Will industry really shift from rail to water?

Few issues stirred such hot debate as that six-letter word "seaway" in the half-century before Congress, afraid" Canada would "go it alone," finally approved the project in 1955.

The railroads and eastern ports, fearing competition, had been the main opponents on grounds it was a waste of money. But when the steel companies saw the opportunity for cheap transport of Labrador iron, they threw their support to the Seaway. Treasury Secretary George Humphrey was an iron man and in the cabinet. Opposition crumbled, construction began.

In the words of N. R. Danielian, chief pilot of the Seaway on its voyage through the Washington political rapids, "the Seaway is not a magic wand which will make the desert bloom."

Many Problems Remain

There remain problems as big and deep as the new channels. And where there are problems, there are arguments.

The open battle against the Seaway has ended. Some eastern railroads like the New York Central and Pennsylvania are climbing aboard the gravy boat with expansion plans near the lake ports.

But sniper fire can be heard all over the lakes as the 'men of the seaway" blast each other.

Target for most of the pot-shots is Danielian, a 50-year old former economics professor at Harvard, Massachusetts-born of Armenian extraction. He is president of the Great akes-St. Lawrence Assn., representing industrial and farm interests, and chairman of the Seaway Users Committee on Tolls.

Along the lakes men accuse Danielian of "undermining" the project he helped pioneer. By speaking of its limitations, he is going to scare away potential foreign trade, they fear.

For Industrial Use

Danielian replies that he is only being realistic. The Seaway is going to be used mainly by industry for bulk cargo — for moving raw materials. While the Seaway can clear 32 ships a day, the Welland Canal between Lakes Ontario and Erie can handle only 28. This, says Danielian, means only 21 million tons of NEW tonnage — most of it domestic.

Danielian also fears that the tolls will be so high that the Seaway may price itself out of competition. On the other hand, if the tolls are kept low enough to foster trade, then, he warns, the Seaway cannot possibly pay for itself in 50 years.

Lewis G. Castle, the Duluth banker who moved over from Danielian's association to become administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. in Washington, retorts that the tolls will be low enough to insure use and the corporation will pay off its 140 million dollar debt to the U.S. Treasury on schedule.

The cost of the Seaway has doubled since the first estimates in 1953, due to rising construction costs, extras tossed into the project and the necessity to correct an oversight which failed to provide navigational aids for shipping in the original plans.

Original calculations were based on estimated tolls of 50 cents a ton for bulk cargo like iron and $1.25 for general package cargo.

Deficits Inevitable

According to Danielian, these tolls would have paid for the Seaway on schedule only if the original costs had held. But with the doubled cost, he says, "deficits are inevitable" in the early years and the corporation will have to lengthen the pay-out, defer payment of the principal or refinance at lower interest.

P. M. Shoemaker, president of the New York State Chamber of Commerce — and also president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad — seized on this to declare "the pattern for the lake ports, followed by subsidy-hungry shippers and shipping interests. . .points toward tolls being eliminated and American taxpayers paying the entire bill."

Seaway administrators, who must collect 24-28 million dollars a year in tolls, insist there will be no shift to the taxpayer's pocket.

Other problems:

Chambers of commerce along the lakes traditionally opposed the Seaway and have been forced to turn turtle to support it, not always enthusiastically.

Port directors and harbor commissioners in many cities have been caught in a local political musical chairs game. They are caught between cries that 'you're spending all our money for nothing" and "you're doing nothing while others grab the gravy."

Need New Rates

The lake ports need new export-import rates for goods moving by rail to their docks. At present, a Springfield, Ill., heavy machinery maker spends $18 a ton shipping to Chicago what he can send half way across the nation to New York for $15.80.

American shippers will need subsidies to compete against the lower costs of foreign shippers on the two new "essential trade routes" established from the lakes to northern Europe and the Caribbean.

The Midwest complains that so long as Canada controls the Welland Canal, Canadian goods will get priority over American shipments. There is talk of an all-American canal cutting across New York state from Lake Erie to Lke Ontario.

Canada has already served official notice that it probably will build new locks on the St. Lawrence opposite the American ones at Massena, N. Y.e nabling ships to sail from the Atlantic to Lake Erie on an all-Canadian canal. Some think it would be toll-free and "then the Americans would be in a fix."

The Seaway saga is just beginning.

Obscenity Bills Are Approved

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader yesterday signed bills designed to strengthen laws prohibiting the sale and distribution of obscene literature in Pennsylvania.

The governor enacted two measures in a brief ceremony, with Judge William F. Cercone, of Allegheny County Common Pleas Court looking on. The jurist had instituted the legislation after a March grand jury in Pittsburgh handed up a presentment calling for stronger laws to halt the distribution of obscene literature.

The jury's recommendations were incorporated in the legislation.

One measure redefines what constitutes "obscenity" and increases penalties for persons convicted of selling, distributing or giving away such literature. The degree of the crime was changed from a misdemeanor to a felony and the maximum fine upon conviction boosted from $500 to $2,000. The prison term was doubled from one to two years. It goes into effect July 27.

The companion bill permits district attorneys to crack down on distributors who require retailers to take "smut" magazines to obtain desirable magazines. Convicted distributors would be liable to a $500 fine or one year in prison, or both. That legislation became effective immediately.

The legislation was aimed at aiding law enforcement officials to curb the flood of obscene periodicals and comic books on newsstands. Police officials had complained they were virtually hamstrung under old laws because of the vague definition of what constituted obscenity.

Big Ships to Use Seaway, Officials Say

OTTAWA (UP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway will normally be able to accommodate ships having an overall length of 715 feet and a beam of 72 feet, Canadian and American seaway authorities announced today.

The authorities said ships having an overall length of up to 730 feet and a beam of up to 75 feet could be accommodated. But these ships would be handled "so as not to interfere with other traffic whenever the transit of such vessels is unduly delaying transit of other shipping," they added.

In fixing the dimensions of ships that could be handled on the seaway, consideration had to be given to the size of ships that could pass through St. Mary's Falls Canal and Locks, the Welland Canal and the various other canals and locks of the seaway, the authorities said. They said fixed bridges over seaway navigation channels will have a minimum vertical clearance of 120 feet above the water surface.

Vending Machine Firms Indicted In Price Fixing

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A federal grand jury today indicted three vending machine firms, an association and six individuals on charges they conspired to fix prices on cigarets sold through vending machines.

Named in the indictment were the Allegheny Cigaret Service Co., of nearby Wilkinsburg; Pennsylvania Music Co., Pittsburgh; Royal Cigaret Service, Inc., Homestead, Pa.; the Automatic Merchandisers Assn. of Western Pennsylvania, and these individuals:

Irvin Frank, Homestead, president of Royal; Harry Rosen, President of Allegheny; Gilmore Bales, Washington, Pa.; Lawrence Daurora, Pittsburgh; Andrew Karnavas, Ambridge, Pa., and Joseph McGlenn, Pittsburgh.

The indictments charged the defendants violated he Sherman Anti-Trust Act by allegedly entering into an agreement in April, 1955, to set prices on cigares sold through vending machines.

Crucible Steel Income Drops

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Crucible Steel Co. today reported sales of $65,705,550 and net income of $2,673,390 for the second quarter of 1957.

Both sales and income, which amounted to $.73 a share, were below the first quarter of 1957 and the second quarter of 1956.

Joel Hunter, Crucible president, said 1956 second quarter sales included shipments to customers who feared a long steel strike and ordered ahead. Buying for this purpose was not necessary this year, he said.

Hunter said he expected orders to rise later in the third quarter and that 1957, on the whole, should be a good year for Crucible.
